Coroner And Attorney Match Wits At Trial

Sheppard Lawyer Fails To Get Police Report From Witness

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard's lawyers angrily and vainly demanded today the Cleveland police report that first labelled him a suspect in his wife's murder.

"Why don't you want me to see it?" shouted defense attorney William J. Corrigan during cross-examination of Coroner Samuel R. Gerber. "Are you reluctant I should read it?"

The state objected vigorously that the police report was not a public record within the control of the coroner's office, although Dr. Gerber had received a copy. Common Pleas Judge Edward J. Blythin directed the jury to disregard Corrigan's remarks.

Court Is Recessed

When court recessed for the night, Corrigan indicated he was satisfied he had gotten his complaint across to the jury and would not press the matter. He resumes his cross-examination of Gerber tomorrow.

Dr. Sheppard is on trial for the July 4 slaying of his wife, Marilyn.

Corrigan brought out in a duel of wits with the coroner that the state is holding a batch of letters found in the dead woman's desk. The lawyer also got on record the defense claim that some morphine capsules were missing from Dr. Sheppard's bag after the slaying.

Dr. Gerber, 60, is the five-foot, five-inch coroner who claims to have found the bloody outline of a surgical instrument on the under side of Marilyn's death pillow. He softened this testimony somewhat during the day, saying if it wasn't a surgical instrument, it at least resembled one.

The state still is trying to find an instrument that may have left such a print.

In Kalamazoo, Mich., the Orthopedic Frame Co. disclosed the state has asked whether the firm has sold such an instrument to Bay View Hospital, where Sheppard practiced 12 miles west of here on Lake Erie.

Two Cutters Found

For one breathless moment today it appeared a new sensation was in the making. Dr. Gerber testified two orthopedic brace cutters were turned over to his office.

"Do they in any way fit those marks in the pillow shown to the jury?" Corrigan asked as a deep hush settled on the stuffy courtroom.

"No, sir," replied the coroner. There was a perceptible gasp of released suspense from spectators.

Dr. Gerber thus far has played the star role in the prosecution's efforts to put the 30-year-old osteopath in the electric chair for the murder of his pregnant wife. In addition to being a physician, Gerber holds a law degree although he never practiced.

Pitted against the coroner in the deadly cat-and-mouse game of cross-examination was Corrigan, 67, defender of Sheppard's innocence and his life.

Earlier, the coroner had testified Marilyn tore a finger nail in her death struggle and that it was not torn in the morgue; that her wristwatch was not removed from her wrist until some time after she died.

Sheppard is accused of beating the 31-year-old Marilyn to death as the outgrowth of a love affair with another woman. Sheppard says she was slain by a bushy-haired prowler who knocked him unconscious.

Dr. Gerber wore a faint smile as Corrigan put him under a cross-examination that promised from the outset to run well beyond today. The coroner had Corrigan thrown out of Marilyn's inquest last July when the lawyer insisted on putting remarks in the record.

Probers May Ask New Testimony From Alger Hiss

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Alger Hiss, a central figure in one of Washington's most sensational Red spy cases, may be called before two congressional committees for additional questioning when he gets out of prison next week.

The man who once worked in the higher echelons of the State Department is due to be released from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 27, having served almost four years for perjury.

Hiss was convicted of lying under oath to a New York federal grand jury when he denied having slipped government secrets to a prewar Soviet spy ring. He made the same denial to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Rep. Velde (R-Ill), present chairman of the committee, disclosed that the group has under consideration a proposal by Rep. Clardy (R-Mich) that Hiss be recalled for interrogation on a wide range of matters.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee also is discussing the advisability of a session with Hiss, according to its chief counsel, Alva Carpenter.

Clardy told reporters he thinks Hiss should be questioned about the alleged introduction of "Communists or Communist sympathizers" into the State Department, as well as the part Hiss played as an adviser to President Roosevelt at the Yalta conference and as an organizer of the United Nations.

Some leading members of Congress, mostly Republicans, contend that unreasonable concessions were made to the Russians at Yalta during World War II.

Hiss went to jail still protesting his innocence, and recently his lawyer, Chester Lane of New York, said that when he is free again "he'll continue to try to vindicate himself and expose the frameup against him."

Korea, U. S. Sign Huge Aid Pact

SEOUL, Thursday, Nov. 18 (AP)—The United States and South Korea yesterday signed an agreement for a 700 million dollar aid program, ending months of bitter exchanges between the two Korean War allies.

Little South Korea finally bowed to U. S. demands that it try to stem inflation, balance its budget and adjust the foreign exchange rate—the latter the cause of an angry dispute last month.

"Mail Order" Diabetes Test Gets Under Way This Week

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The first nationwide "mail order" testing for diabetes gets under way this week.

For the price of a three-cent stamp you can mail a sample of urine — absorbed in a special filter paper — to a central testing point in your Community. You'll be notified by mail if the test shows sugar, and advised to have more thorough tests made by your doctor.

The novel system is a feature of Diabetes Detection Week, sponsored by the American Diabetes Assn. and designed to discover as many as possible of an estimated million Americans believed to have diabetes without knowing it. There are another million known diabetics in the United States.

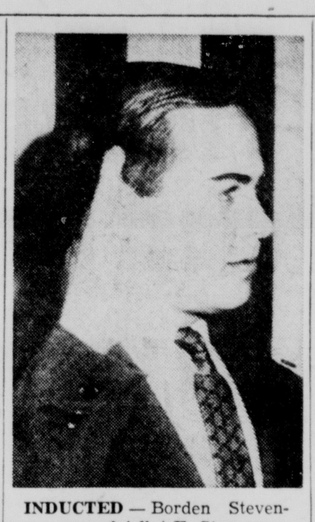

A special kit, furnished free through the ADA and local diabetes associations, is being distributed through drug stores. The kit was tested in experimental trials in St. Louis, Cleveland and a few other cities last year.

Diabetes is subject to ready control under a doctor's care, and the earlier it is detected, the easier the control.

Dr. Louis K. Alpert of Washington, chairman of the Committee on Detection and Education for the ADA, told a reporter that the mail-type system is only one phase of the program aimed at uncovering suspicious cases.

In some areas, arrangements have been made for free testing of urine samples by health authorities and private physicians.

And in at least two cities — Washington and Boston — a special device known as a "Clinitron" is being used to test for sugar in the blood. All that's required is a drop of blood from a person's finger.

INDUCTED — Borden Stevenson, son of Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic party leader, is sworn into army and will be assigned to Camp Chaffee, Ark., for basic training.

Power Group Seeks Quick Pact Approval

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Dixon-Yates power group asked the Securities and Exchange Commission today for quick approval of its financing plans for a 107-million dollar generating plant at West Memphis, Ark.

The project has been the subject of hot debate in Congress, and a group of Democrats say they will try to kill it when their party takes over control of the House and Senate in January.

In applying for SEC approval, the Dixon-Yates group said it would require 36 months to build the steam plant and that by that time the Memphis area will be facing "a critical power shortage."

"Any increase in price levels or any substantial delay in construction could have grave consequences," the application said. "Therefore the greatest possible expedition is respectfully requested."

SEC officials indicated they would schedule tomorrow a hearing to start probably in two to four weeks.

Power produced at West Memphis will be fed into the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority to replace energy being drained from the TVA system by the big installations of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Democrats opposing the project argue it infringes on the public power territory of the TVA, and some argue the contract itself is a poor one, providing for excessive profits at no risk to the investing companies.

The application was submitted by the newly formed Mississippi Valley Generating Co., a subsidiary of Middle South Utilities, Inc., and the Southern Co. Those two firms will control the new company through purchase of its entire capital stock of 5½ million dollars.

Russia Accepts Advisory Place

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 17 P — Russia accepted today a place on an advisory committee to arrange an international scientific conference on atomic energy. The Soviet Union also apparently edged closer to full participation in President Eisenhower's atoms for peace program.

In a speech closing general debate in the U.N. Assembly's Political Committee, Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky pointed out what he called some flaws in a seven-power Western plan to create an international atomic agency along the lines of a U.N. specialized agency. He said, however, negotiations are continuing and added:

"The question of further work, organization and so on has not been touched upon by us at all. As I say, we adhere to the framework of the draft resolution (the seven power proposal) which, in addition to the shortcomings I have mentioned, also contain a number of entirely acceptable provisions."

World Peace Group To Open Meeting

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 17 (AP) — The Communist - sponsored World Peace Council opens a six-day meeting here tomorrow.

Mrs. Isabelle Blum, a former member of the Belgian Parliament, told newsmen tonight at least 175 delegates will attend and that most countries would be represented but not the United States, which did not grant any passports for the meeting.

Elbow Bruise To McCarthy Seen As Delay

Vigorous Admirer Sends Senator To Hospital For Check

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—An elbow bruise reported inflicted by a vigorous admirer sent Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) to the hospital today, and there was talk of calling "time out" in the Senate's censure fight.

Sen. Case (R-SD), a member of the Watkins committee which recommended censure of McCarthy, said "some consideration" undoubtedly will be given tomorrow to recessing the debate unless McCarthy is able to attend by that time.

Raises Serious Questions

Case told a reporter McCarthy's absence "raises rather serious questions both of the Senate's courtesy and its attitude toward a fellow senator."

He noted McCarthy was represented on the floor today, however, by the presence of his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, and by Sen. Welker (R-Idaho) whose often interrupted pro - McCarthy speech filled most of the day.

Welker, floor manager for the McCarthy side, challenged the key findings of the Watkins committee as "absurd" and as "contrary to our whole theory of government."

McCarthy failed to appear at today's session and it was not learned until late afternoon that he had been admitted to the nearby Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital, where a hospital spokesman said he may remain for several days.

Mrs. Mary Driscoll, McCarthy's secretary, said he hurt his elbow in Milwaukee last Saturday when an enthusiastic supporter shook hands so hard it rammed the elbow against a glass table top. The hospital officer said a contusion resulted and the elbow has now grown swollen and painful.

"We think he will be in the hospital probably several days," he said.

Jenner Favors Proposal

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), a backer of McCarthy in the censure debate said he would look favorably on a proposal to call everything off until McCarthy became "physically able to return to his own defense."

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California indicated, however he doesn't think McCarthy's hospitalization need delay action.

Knowland was reported to believe preliminary voting might begin Friday.

McCarthy's hospitalization came as the move to censure him headed for a possible early showdown.

With the main body of debate apparently nearing an end, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), long friendly to McCarthy, disclosed he would attempt to offer a substitute tomorrow for the pending censure resolution.

This compromise move could lead to the first vote on the censure question. It would raise the possibility of final action, and an end to the present extraordinary session of the Senate, by Thanksgiving Day. Of course, if time out is taken, the schedule would be indefinite.

Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) has yet to file a third censure charge which he said yesterday he will propose, as an addition to the two pending counts presented by the select committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah).

Welker centered his fire on the contention of the Watkins committee that no senator has the right to impugn the motives of another.

"Walkout" At Pharmacy Plant Is Led By The Owner

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 17 (AP)—A Richmond pharmaceutical plant closed down tonight as 100 employes walked off the job for an all-expense four-day Florida vacation. The walkout was led by E. Clairborne Robins—the boss.

It was the third such work stoppage in as many years at the Robins' plant where workers have become happily accustomed to the boss's sudden urges to get away from it all.

Twice previously Robins, a graying, energetic man of 44, has taken his employes to New York on all-expense trips. A few weeks ago he decided it was about time for a new venture. So three coaches on a railroad streamliner were chartered and rooms reserved at a swank Miami Beach hotel.

Each of the 100 employes, both men and women, were given $100 checks for spending money shortly before boarding the train tonight. Robins is footing the train and hotel bills.

At Miami Beach, the employes will have lots of free rein to do as they please. But there'll also be planned entertainment—sightseeing tours, a cocktail party and a bit of nightclubbing.

Robins has promised to pay for two drinks—after that, the employe will have to dip into his spending money.

Robins—who also gives his workers turkeys at Thanksgiving, hams at Easter and bonuses from time to time—got the idea for the business family vacations three years ago while talking to a stenographer who happened to mention she'd never been to New York. Upon inquiry, he learned more than a score of other girls on his staff hadn't been, either.

So Robins quickly whipped up a trip to the big town and bought everybody tickets to "South Pacific."

Robins has a simple explanation for the junkets. "I think everybody ought to take time off and have a little fun now and then," he says.

Leaders In Huddle

Mendes-France Arrives In U. S. For Conference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France arrived today for talks with President Eisenhower and said the whole free world "is making steady progress on the road to peace."

"I come to America in a spirit of optimism," he said as he was greeted at Washington National airport.

Informed officials said that topping the informal agenda is his request to the United States to consider guaranteeing the present French - German compromise agreement on the future of the industrial Saar.

He also has suggested a discussion of East-West relations and new talks on his criticized proposal for a common arms pool for Western European allies.

Eisenhower and Dulles are known to be approaching the Mendes-France talks with caution, reluctant to make any new promises to the French Premier who has been guiding France less than five months.

Some misgivings and suspicions apparently still remain among top American officials about Mendes-France's long - range policy but they are hopeful the visit will ease this and lead to a clearer understanding of his policies.

Super-Secret Transfer Plan To Be Tested

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The government's super-secret plan to transfer key federal agencies to various spots 80 to 200 miles from Washington in case of an atomic attack on the capital gets its first major test Saturday.

Two thousand employes of critical agencies have secret orders to report to 30 designated emergency headquarters sites and to "run" the government from there, starting at 10 a.m.

The Office of Defense Mobilization, which is coordinating the plan, won't say where the sites are. It says only that they are in cities and towns in an area extending about 80 miles west and north of the city and about 200 miles south.

Ike Presents Harmon Awards

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower today presented the Harmon international trophies to Maj. Charles E. Yeager for breaking the world's aviation speed record and to Jacqueline Cochran as the first woman to break through the sound barrier.

The awards of symbolic statues and gold medals were made in the White House rose garden at a ceremony attended by government and industry officials.

Yeager, whose parents came here from Hamlin, W.Va., for the presentation, got his award for piloting the bell X1A rocket-powered research aircraft to a world's speed record of 1,650 miles per hour Dec. 12, 1953 at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

The Air Force speedster, who was the first to exceed the speed of sound on Oct. 14, 1947, in the original bell X1, came here for the ceremony from his station with the 12th Air Force in Germany.

The "aviatrix" trophy went to Miss Cochran for breaking the sound barrier flying over a closed course and for establishing the women's speed record of 652 miles per hour in an F86 Sabrejet on May 18, 1953. The F86 was built by the Canadair division of General Dynamics.

Prowlers Reported At Roosevelt Home

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 17 (AP)—Prowlers have been reported for the third time at the home of Mrs. Romelle Roosevelt, estranged wife of Congressman-elect James Roosevelt.

Police Det. Joseph R. Guthrie today said Mrs. Roosevelt has expressed fear for the safety of her three children.

A neighbor said she saw a man standing in the rain last Thursday morning peering into a side window of Mrs. Roosevelt's home. Guthrie said the next day footprints were found in muddy soil outside the window.

More footprints were found outside the house Monday morning, Guthrie said.

Government Ends Attempt To Oust Judge From Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Justice Department has decided against any further steps to remove Judge Luther W. Youngdahl from the Owen Lattimore case.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Leo A. Rover, who has accused Youngdahl of bias toward Lattimore, announced the decision of his superiors today.

Lattimore, Far East affairs specialist and educator, is due to go on trial Jan. 10, charged with swearing falsely to a Senate subcommittee he had never followed the Communist line or promoted Communist causes.

Lattimore was originally indicted in 1952 on seven counts. When the proceeding reached Youngdahl he threw out the key count — that Lattimore lied when he swore he had not been a Communist sympathizer or promoter — and three lesser counts.

The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld Youngdahl on dismissal of the key count but reinstated two of the other three Youngdahl had thrown out.

Rover later obtained another two-count indictment which in effect replaced the key charge Youngdahl dismissed. The main difference is that the new indictment speaks of following the Communist line and promoting Red causes, rather than "sympathizing."

Youngdahl held that the original central charge was too vague and he also expressed doubt as to the strength of others.

Rover, in turn, asked the judge to disqualify himself from the trial on grounds he had "a fixed personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Lattimore. Youngdahl rejected this as "scandalous." He refused to step aside and let some other judge hear the case.

Senate Gets Gavel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Vice President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan of India today presented to the United States Senate a solid ivory gavel. Vice President Nixon announced it would replace one used in the body for 165 years but which had begun to fall apart in recent years.

Top Leaders Plan, Review Future Moves

Best Interests Of Nation In Harmony President States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower appealed to congressional leaders of both parties today for continued bipartisanship on foreign and defense policies, in "the best interests of our nation.

Top Democrats, who will be leaders in the new Congress, indicated agreement with the President's view that such an approach is "essential" — provided they are consulted ahead of time on major, critical decisions.

Sen. George (D-Ga), slated to become chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Eisenhower promised such advance consultation "so far as that was practical."

Meet 2½ Hours

For 2¼ hours, the President, Secretary of State Dulles, Secretary of Defense Wilson and 22 Democratic and Republican congressional chieftains explored America's present and future course in the fields of foreign affairs and national security. They conferred in the White House Cabinet room at Eisenhower's invitation. Those present included House Speaker Martin (R-Mass), Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex), who will succeed Martin as speaker in January, Republican and Democratic floor leaders and whips of both Senate and House, and top Democrats and Republicans on the Foreign Affairs, Armed Services and Appropriations Committees.

Various participants described the meeting as entirely harmonious. They said no mention was made of the position of Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California or of Knowland's Senate speech Monday urging a congressional review of foreign and defense policies.

Knowland said it should be determined whether "a basic change" in the direction of American foreign policy is desirable. He said there is a "clear and present danger" in the idea of peaceful coexistence with Russia that would give the Soviets time to build up an atomic arsenal and then start nibbling away at one nation after another.

Leaves Conference

Secretary Dulles, who said yesterday there was no emergency to warrant the review Knowland requested, left today's conference saying it was "a very good meeting" and that he always has said prospects for bipartisanship on foreign policy are good.

George and other conferees said they got the impression the administration believes Russia is encountering internal difficulties in its satellite countries and consequently is in a somewhat weaker world position than in the past.

He said he carried away a feeling that both Eisenhower and Dulles "have a strengthened conviction that we are moving toward a stronger position in meeting the difficult problems of the world."

Queen Ends Visit

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth of England ended her 22-day visit to the United States and Canada tonight, boarding the Queen Mary for the return trip tomorrow.

Montgomery Ward To Close Several Of Smaller Stores

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP) — A shutdown of some 14 of its 580 retail stores effective Christmas Eve is planned by Montgomery Ward & Co., huge retail merchandise firm which several rival groups are seeking to control.

John A. Barr, vice president and secretary, said the planned shutdowns are "part of a general program of concentrating on larger stores and better locations."

He said "a few" of Ward's smaller stores — the exact number has not been determined — would be closed when their leases expire at the end of the year.

Another company official who asked to remain anonymous gave the number as 14 and the shutdown date as Christmas Eve.

At least two groups have announced their intention of seeking to wrest control of the company from Sewell L. Avery, Ward's 81-year-old board chairman, at the annual meeting in April. Avery has accepted the challenge.

Louis Wolfson, Florida financier, has sought to make Ward's policies on retail outlets one of the major issues in his bid for control.

Wolfson has argued the company should open more stores. He has said his philosophy is "faith in future prosperity" and has contended that Avery has a "philosophy of gloom and doom."

Avery however recently said "there is no need for additional retail outlets now, but conditions are changing as a result of the automobile."

He said he would like to build more retail stores but that "my impression is that building costs are terrifically high."

Another group announcing its intention of seeking control of the company is headed by Fred Saigh, St. Louis businessman.

Three of the stores docketed for closing are in Tucson, Ariz.; Portland, Me. and Battle Creek, Mich.

Vishinsky pointed out what he called some flaws in a seven-power Western plan to create an international atomic agency along the lines of a U.N. specialized agency. He said, however, negotiations are continuing and added:

"The question of further work, organization and so on has not been touched upon by us at all. As I say, we adhere to the framework of the draft resolution (the seven power proposal) which, in addition to the shortcomings I have mentioned, also contain a number of entirely acceptable provisions."

Elbow Bruise To McCarthy Seen As Delay

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—An elbow bruise reported inflicted by a vigorous admirer sent Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) to the hospital today, and there was talk of calling "time out" in the Senate's censure fight.

Sen. Case (R-SD), a member of the Watkins committee which recommended censure of McCarthy, said "some consideration" undoubtedly will be given tomorrow to recessing the debate unless McCarthy is able to attend by that time.

Raises Serious Questions

Case told a reporter McCarthy's absence "raises rather serious questions both of the Senate's courtesy and its attitude toward a fellow senator."

He noted McCarthy was represented on the floor today, however, by the presence of his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, and by Sen. Welker (R-Idaho) whose often interrupted pro - McCarthy speech filled most of the day.

Welker, floor manager for the McCarthy side, challenged the key findings of the Watkins committee as "absurd" and as "contrary to our whole theory of government."

McCarthy failed to appear at today's session and it was not learned until late afternoon that he had been admitted to the nearby Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital, where a hospital spokesman said he may remain for several days.

Mrs. Mary Driscoll, McCarthy's secretary, said he hurt his elbow in Milwaukee last Saturday when an enthusiastic supporter shook hands so hard it rammed the elbow against a glass table top. The hospital officer said a contusion resulted and the elbow has now grown swollen and painful.

"We think he will be in the hospital probably several days," he said.

Jenner Favors Proposal

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), a backer of McCarthy in the censure debate said he would look favorably on a proposal to call everything off until McCarthy became "physically able to return to his own defense."

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California indicated, however he doesn't think McCarthy's hospitalization need delay action.

Knowland was reported to believe preliminary voting might begin Friday.

McCarthy's hospitalization came as the move to censure him headed for a possible early showdown.

With the main body of debate apparently nearing an end, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), long friendly to McCarthy, disclosed he would attempt to offer a substitute tomorrow for the pending censure resolution.

This compromise move could lead to the first vote on the censure question. It would raise the possibility of final action, and an end to the present extraordinary session of the Senate, by Thanksgiving Day. Of course, if time out is taken, the schedule would be indefinite.

Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) has yet to file a third censure charge which he said yesterday he will propose, as an addition to the two pending counts presented by the select committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah).

Welker centered his fire on the contention of the Watkins committee that no senator has the right to impugn the motives of another.

"Walkout" At Pharmacy Plant Is Led By The Owner

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 17 (AP)—A Richmond pharmaceutical plant closed down tonight as 100 employees walked off the job for an all-expense four-day Florida vacation. The walkout was led by E. Clairborne Robins—the boss.

It was the third such work stoppage in as many years at the Robins' plant where workers have become happily accustomed to the boss's sudden urges to get away from it all.

Twice previously Robins, a graying, energetic man of 44, has taken his employes to New York on all-expense trips. A few weeks ago he decided it was about time for a new venture. So three coaches on a railroad streamliner were chartered and rooms reserved at a swank Miami Beach hotel.

Each of the 100 employes, both men and women, were given $100 checks for spending money shortly before boarding the train tonight. Robins is footing the train and hotel bills.

At Miami Beach, the employes will have lots of free rein to do as they please. But there'll also be planned entertainment—sightseeing tours, a cocktail party and a bit of nightclubbing.

Robins has promised to pay for two drinks—after that, the employe will have to dip into his spending money.

Robins—who also gives his workers turkeys at Thanksgiving, hams at Easter and bonuses from time to time—got the idea for the business family vacations three years ago while talking to a stenographer who happened to mention she'd never been to New York. Upon inquiry, he learned more than a score of other girls on his staff hadn't been, either.

So Robins quickly whipped up a trip to the big town and bought everybody tickets to "South Pacific."

Robins has a simple explanation for the junkets. "I think everybody ought to take time off and have a little fun now and then," he says.

Leaders In Huddle

Mendes-France Arrives In U. S. For Conference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France arrived today for talks with President Eisenhower and said the whole free world "is making steady progress on the road to peace."

"I come to America in a spirit of optimism," he said as he was greeted at Washington National airport.

Vice President Nixon, Secretary of State Dulles and diplomats greeted Mendes-France warmly as he stepped off a plane which brought him from Ottawa for a three-day round of talks.

Informed officials said that topping the informal agenda is his request to the United States to consider guaranteeing the present French - German compromise agreement on the future of the industrial Saar.

He also has suggested a discussion of East-West relations and new talks on his criticized proposal for a common arms pool for Western European allies.

Eisenhower and Dulles are known to be approaching the Mendes-France talks with caution, reluctant to make any new promises to the French Premier who has been guiding France less than five months.

Some misgivings and suspicions apparently still remain among top American officials about Mendes-France's long - range policy but they are hopeful the visit will ease this and lead to a clearer understanding of his policies.

Super-Secret Transfer Plan To Be Tested

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The government's super-secret plan to transfer key federal agencies to various spots 80 to 200 miles from Washington in case of an atomic attack on the capital gets its first major test Saturday.

Two thousand employes of critical agencies have secret orders to report to 30 designated emergency headquarters sites and to "run" the government from there, starting at 10 a.m.

The Office of Defense Mobilization, which is coordinating the plan, won't say where the sites are. It says only that they are in cities and towns in an area extending about 80 miles west and north of the city and about 200 miles south.

Ike Presents Harmon Awards

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower today presented the Harmon international trophies to Maj. Charles E. Yeager for breaking the world's aviation speed record and to Jacqueline Cochran as the first woman to break through the sound barrier.

The awards of symbolic statues and gold medals were made in the White House rose garden at a ceremony attended by government and industry officials.

Yeager, whose parents came here from Hamlin, W.Va., for the presentation, got his award for piloting the bell X1A rocket-powered research aircraft to a world's speed record of 1,650 miles per hour Dec. 12, 1953 at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

The Air Force speedster, who was the first to exceed the speed of sound on Oct. 14, 1947, in the original bell X1, came here for the ceremony from his station with the 12th Air Force in Germany.

The "aviatrix" trophy went to Miss Cochran for breaking the sound barrier flying over a closed course and for establishing the women's speed record of 652 miles per hour in an F86 Sabrejet on May 18, 1953. The F86 was built by the Canadair division of General Dynamics.

Prowlers Reported At Roosevelt Home

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 17 (AP)—Prowlers have been reported for the third time at the home of Mrs. Romelle Roosevelt, estranged wife of Congressman-elect James Roosevelt.

Police Det. Joseph R. Guthrie today said Mrs. Roosevelt has expressed fear for the safety of her three children.

A neighbor said she saw a man standing in the rain last Thursday morning peering into a side window of Mrs. Roosevelt's home. Guthrie said the next day footprints were found in muddy soil outside the window.

More footprints were found outside the house Monday morning, Guthrie said.

Government Ends Attempt To Oust Judge From Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Justice Department has decided against any further steps to remove Judge Luther W. Youngdahl from the Owen Lattimore case.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Leo A. Rover, who has accused Youngdahl of bias toward Lattimore, announced the decision of his superiors today.

Lattimore, Far East affairs specialist and educator, is due to go on trial Jan. 10, charged with swearing falsely to a Senate subcommittee he had never followed the Communist line or promoted Communist causes.

Lattimore was originally indicted in 1952 on seven counts. When the proceeding reached Youngdahl he threw out the key count — that Lattimore lied when he swore he had not been a Communist sympathizer or promoter — and three lesser counts.

The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld Youngdahl on dismissal of the key count but reinstated two of the other three Youngdahl had thrown out.

Rover later obtained another two-count indictment which in effect replaced the key charge Youngdahl dismissed. The main difference is that the new indictment speaks of following the Communist line and promoting Red causes, rather than "sympathizing."

Youngdahl held that the original central charge was too vague and he also expressed doubt as to the strength of others.

Rover, in turn, asked the judge to disqualify himself from the trial on grounds he had "a fixed personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Lattimore. Youngdahl rejected this as "scandalous." He refused to step aside and let some other judge hear the case.

Top Leaders Plan, Review Future Moves

Best Interests Of Nation In Harmony President States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower appealed to congressional leaders of both parties today for continued bipartisanship on foreign and defense policies, in "the best interests of our nation.

Top Democrats, who will be leaders in the new Congress, indicated agreement with the President's view that such an approach is "essential" — provided they are consulted ahead of time on major, critical decisions.

Sen. George (D-Ga), slated to become chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Eisenhower promised such advance consultation "so far as that was practical."

Meet 2½ Hours

For 2¼ hours, the President, Secretary of State Dulles, Secretary of Defense Wilson and 22 Democratic and Republican congressional chieftains explored America's present and future course in the fields of foreign affairs and national security. They conferred in the White House Cabinet room at Eisenhower's invitation. Those present included House Speaker Martin (R-Mass), Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex), who will succeed Martin as speaker in January, Republican and Democratic floor leaders and whips of both Senate and House, and top Democrats and Republicans on the Foreign Affairs, Armed Services and Appropriations Committees.

Various participants described the meeting as entirely harmonious. They said no mention was made of the position of Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California or of Knowland's Senate speech Monday urging a congressional review of foreign and defense policies.

Knowland said it should be determined whether "a basic change" in the direction of American foreign policy is desirable. He said there is a "clear and present danger" in the idea of peaceful coexistence with Russia that would give the Soviets time to build up an atomic arsenal and then start nibbling away at one nation after another.

Leaves Conference

Secretary Dulles, who said yesterday there was no emergency to warrant the review Knowland requested, left today's conference saying it was "a very good meeting" and that he always has said prospects for bipartisanship on foreign policy are good.

George and other conferees said they got the impression the administration believes Russia is encountering internal difficulties in its satellite countries and consequently is in a somewhat weaker world position than in the past.

He said he carried away a feeling that both Eisenhower and Dulles "have a strengthened conviction that we are moving toward a stronger position in meeting the difficult problems of the world."

Montgomery Ward To Close Several Of Smaller Stores

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP) — A shutdown of some 14 of its 580 retail stores effective Christmas Eve is planned by Montgomery Ward & Co., huge retail merchandise firm which several rival groups are seeking to control.

John A. Barr, vice president and secretary, said the planned shutdowns are "part of a general program of concentrating on larger stores and better locations."

He said "a few" of Ward's smaller stores — the exact number has not been determined — would be closed when their leases expire at the end of the year.

Another company official who asked to remain anonymous gave the number as 14 and the shutdown date as Christmas Eve.

At least two groups have announced their intention of seeking to wrest control of the company from Sewell L. Avery, Ward's 81-year-old board chairman, at the annual meeting in April. Avery has accepted the challenge.

Louis Wolfson, Florida financier, has sought to make Ward's policies on retail outlets one of the major issues in his bid for control.

Wolfson has argued the company should open more stores. He has said his philosophy is "faith in future prosperity" and has contended that Avery has a "philosophy of gloom and doom."

Avery however recently said "there is no need for additional retail outlets now, but conditions are changing as a result of the automobile."

He said he would like to build more retail stores but that "my impression is that building costs are terrifically high."

Another group announcing its intention of seeking control of the company is headed by Fred Saigh, St. Louis businessman.

Ban Of Military Schools From Debates Is Opposed

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Two U. S. Senators oppose a Defense Department order that forbids cadets and midshipmen from taking part in inter-collegiate debates on whether the U. S. should recognize Red China.

The Evening Sun of Baltimore asked for comment on the order from members of the Naval Academy Board of Visitors, a group of 15 educators, congressmen, senators and business men which serves the academy in an advisory capacity.

The Defense Department's order said that inasmuch as national policy had been established on recognition of Red China, it would be inappropriate to have military personnel debating it. The Navy Department added that to have a midshipmen argue for recognition, even in a debate, would lay him open to misrepresentation and give the Reds a "propaganda device."

"Eyewash," said Sen. Ellender (D-La).

"It's wrong to deny them (the midshipmen) the right to say what they want, when they want," Ellender added. "Let the Russians know that nobody here is denied freedom of speech."

Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho) said the order is "too drastic."

"We may be debating the subject on the floor of the Senate some day," he added. "The truth will not hurt anybody."

But Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, said he "tended to favor" the ban, explaining that "the midshipmen are under strict military discipline and in a service which is traditionally policy enforcing, not policy making."

"Such an order would be incredible if applied to other schools," said Dr. Hatcher, "but in regard to the academy you must consider that the subject is extremely sensitive and the students involved are military personnel."

The publisher of the Scranton, Pa., Times, Edward J. Lynett, also favored the Defense Department order. He took the positiin it would not interfere with the midshipmen's education and was necessary to avoid giving the communists propaganda material.

In any event, Lynett said, it is a matter for the government to handle, rather than the board of visitors.

Seek To Abolish Tax Commission

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP) — A Montgomery County official today asked the Legislative Council to consider legislation which would abolish the present tax commission and set up in its place a state court for tax appeals and a department of assessments.

The proposal came from Joseph Kyle, assistant county attorney of Montgomery, and Carey Quinn, chairman of the Montgomery Tax Appeal Court.

The measure they sponsor is similar to one introduced in the General Assembly last year by Del. Lawlor (R-Montgomery).

Kyle criticized the procedure which permits the Tax Commission to make the rules for assessment and then hear appeals from its own rulings.

He suggested a three-man court hear appeals in various circuits of locating permanently in Baltimore which might influence taxpayers from remote sections of the State not to exercise their appeal rights.

Kyle would have the tax court members on salaries "commensurate with the work involved" and on a full time basis.

Executive Secretary Albert W. Ward of the Tax Commission disagreed with a proposal that the subdivisions make their own assessments. Ward pointed to the need for uniformity in assessments throughout the State in stating his case against autonomy of assessments.

It was Baltimore's worst fire in nearly two years.

A Red cross unit was set up in a school to help families made homeless by the fire which struck last night ten blocks south of the main business district.

Firemen said the fire started in a lumer yard. The flames quickly spread to other buildings and homes in the block bounded by Leadenhall, Cross, Race and West Streets.

Two injured firemen required hospital treatment. Two others had to be relieved of duty. The others were returned to duty after treatment at the scene.

Three explosions rocked the area. Flames leaped more than 80 feet into the air, at one point jumping across the street and cracking and shattering windows of a fire house.

Hardest hit were three business places and five row houses on West street. These were the buildings ordered torn down today by Raphael Fratta, superintendent of the city building inspection staff.

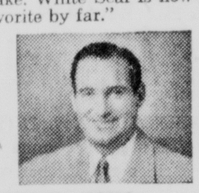

The first alarm was sounded shortly after 9 p. m. and the flames raged out of control for nearly two hours. The cause was not immediately determined.

A Red cross unit was set up in a school to help families made homeless by the fire which struck last night ten blocks south of the main business district.

Firemen said the fire started in a lumer yard. The flames quickly spread to other buildings and homes in the block bounded by Leadenhall, Cross, Race and West Streets.

Two injured firemen required hospital treatment. Two others had to be relieved of duty. The others were returned to duty after treatment at the scene.

Three explosions rocked the area. Flames leaped more than 80 feet into the air, at one point jumping across the street and cracking and shattering windows of a fire house.

Hardest hit were three business places and five row houses on West street. These were the buildings ordered torn down today by Raphael Fratta, superintendent of the city building inspection staff.

The first alarm was sounded shortly after 9 p. m. and the flames raged out of control for nearly two hours. The cause was not immediately determined.

Negro Is Sought For Abduction Of Young Girl

RUPERT, Idaho, Nov. 17 (AP) — Officers issued a multistate alarm today for an itinerant Negro labor contractor they accused of abducting a 16-year-old farm girl and forcing her to commit an indecent sexual act.

The alarm was issued after officials discovered they earlier had been looking for the wrong man. The Minidoka County sheriff's office in Rupert announced the error was discovered when pictures of the supposedly wanted man were shown to the victim's family.

When they said he was not the man who had abducted 16-year-old Janice Laney, officials took a description and found it to tally with that of another Negro, but the identification is not positive.

Sheriff Floyd Stewart said the man allegedly abducted the girl after forcing her father, Clarence, and an uncle, Louis, from his car yesterday evening. He had taken them into the country north of Rupert on the promise of a job.

The girl, barefoot and hysterical, was found on a lonely farm road north of Rupert early today, some seven hours after her abduction.

Stewart said physicians at Rupert General Hospital reported the girl had been sexually molested but not raped. He said she reported the man forced her at knifepoint to commit an indecent act upon him.

The sheriff said the girl told him the man drove her to an isolated shack about 12 miles north of Rupert in this southcentral Idaho farming area. She was forced to remove her clothes.

She said she managed to escape and hid under the man's car. She said she remained there while her assailant searched for her then, failing to find her, got in the car and drove away. She said the car passed over her without hitting her body.

President To Press Foreign Trade Plan

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he will "press forward" at the next session of Congress for enactment of the foreign trade program he recommended earlier this year.

The President's program, embracing proposals intended to liberalize U. S. trade and tariff policies, was originally submitted to Congress in March. It was based on the findings of a special presidential commission headed by Chicago industrialist Clarence B. Randall.

President Eisenhower's latest expression of opinion on the trade question was contained in a message to the windup session of the 41st National Foreign Trade Convention here.

Plane Disappears

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 17 (AP)—A military transport plane disappeared with 20 passengers on a flight from Pucallpa to Lima yesterday.

Russia Doesn't Meet Standards

MOSCOW, Nov. 17 (AP)—Rep. Victor Wickersham (D-Okla), just back from a one-week tour of interior Russia, said today "Russia just can't compare with the U. S. standard of living."

"In some respects," he said in an interview, "they are 50 years behind U. S. standards—for instance, some of their industrial methods and thousands of women doing heavy manual labor."

But Wickersham, who winds up a two-week visit to the Soviet Union Friday, also added "yet Russia has made considerable improvement over what I saw here nine years ago.

"For instance, they are doing very much residential and public building. Their farm lands look very fertile and the people seem cheerful and happy with what they have and they are mighty proud of what they have. But they certainly know little if anything about the outside world."

Wickersham spent the last week on a tour which took him to Stalingrad, Kiev, Odessa, Rostov, Kharkov and Stalino.

It was a guided tour, but Wickersham said "I had perfect liberty to see what I wanted. I met directors at many of their institutions and factories."

Former Deputy Convicted Of Bribe

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Nov. 17 (AP)—Former Chief Deputy Sheriff Albert Fuller was convicted of bribery today for taking payoff money to let a house of prostitution operate unmolested during the era of vice in Phenix City.

Special Judge Walter B. Jones sentenced him to seven years in prison. Fuller, who served notice of appeal, was lying on the ambulance cot on which he has spent most of the last two days in court. A back injury has kept him bedridden for 14 weeks.

U. S. To Back Diem To Hilt

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Nov. 17 (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins said today the United States wants to help make Southern Viet Nam a bastion against communism by training its army. But he said such aid would be granted only on the condition that the troops obey Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

Collins, former U.S. Army chief of staff and President Eisenhower's special ambassador to Indochina, spoke to about 50 Vietnamese, French, U.S., and British correspondents at his first news conference since his recent arrival. He made it abundantly clear he came to this country to back Diem to the hilt.

A feud between Diem and his army chief of staff, Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, has almost paralyzed the Vietnamese government for two months. Hinh refused to obey Diem's order to go to France for a long leave, although he has now agreed at the request of Bao Dai Viet Nam's chief of state, to proceed to France for talks with Bao Dai.

Collins said the plan for U.S. officers to take over from the French the training of Viet Nam's army is being discussed with the French and Vietnamese governments. The army now numbers about 250,000.

Battered Freighter Towed Into Port

CORNER BROOK, Nfld., Nov. 17 (AP)—The storm-battered freighter Stork was towed into this port late today after nearly foundering during a gale in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The 7,111-ton Panama-flagged ship had been all but given up for lost yesterday but her crew stayed aboard and manned the pumps until help arrived.

Gale winds in the gulf two days ago cracked her deck plates.

Bohlen Due To Return For White House Talk

Top Level Review Of Plane Incident

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, President Eisenhower's envoy to Moscow, is due back here for top level consultation on Soviet policy next week.

He is coming home in the midst of U. S. efforts to find out whether the Kremlin, which has been talking up peaceful coexistence, is willing to call a halt to the shooting down of American aircraft.

Bohlen's return was announced by the State Department today. The announcement came shortly after the department disclosed the text of a new protest note demanding the Soviet government take action to prevent a recurrence of fighter attacks such as that which downed a RB29 on Nov. 7 off Japan.

If Russia does not take "appropriate action," the note said, the United States will provide its aircraft in the future with "defensive protection." That looked like a warning that fighter escorts would accompany all planes flying in the vicinity of Soviet controlled areas.

The protest note conceded officially that the RB29 photographic plane which went down Nov. 7 had been operating in a disputed area. This was in line with President Eisenhower's comment last week that the issues in the case were not clear cut.

The aircraft, the note indicated, was attacked in the region of the Habomai Islands which are occupied and claimed by Russians but which the United States considers to be Japanese territory.

Today's note asked for "appropriate disciplinary measures" against those who caused the attack, in which one life was lost. But its main significance in the light of Moscow talks about coexistence and improving American-Soviet relations seemed to lie in these words:

"The United States government requests . . . all possible steps be taken to prevent the recurrence of such incidents which are in flagrant contradiction of recent statements by high Soviet officials that the Soviet Union seeks to abate international tension."

Bohlen has been a key figure in the development of United States policy toward the Soviet Union for many years, and still is.

On the day the RB29 was shot down by Soviet bombers, Bohlen went to a Kremlin dinner and spent half an hour talking with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

In that conversation, Malenkov advocated practical solutions of American-Soviet problems through diplomatic channels instead of letting them become big issues. The reference in today's note to recent statements by "high Soviet officials" appeared to be a reminder of the Premier's words.

Editors Divided On Amount Of Leeway Needed

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 17 (AP)—The nation's newspaper editors divided sharply today on the question of how much leeway should be given in interpreting news events and in using information from sources who refuse to be named.

The proposition at the first workshop session of The Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. provoked lively discussion, with three general viewpoints being expressed.

These are:

1. That good interpretive writing is nothing more than good reporting; that the newspaper owes it to readers to give them explanatory facts.

2. That the AP must be the reporter, not the source of news, and any lowering of the bars on attribution and interpretation would be dangerous with the AP being open to challenge from both sides of an issue.

3. That a middle of the road approach should be pursued, with each story coming from a source who declined to be named being weighed on its news merits, carefully checked and handled.

Michael J. Ogden, managing editor of the Providence Bulletin and Journal, said he took the position the reporter must go beyond the cold facts of a story, and provide the reader a descriptive setting for the news event as the AP did in coverage of the Sen. McCarthy-Army hearings.

"The reporter must act as the reader's eyes as well as his ears," Ogden said. "I would expect a description of the events to be a part of the story. I am in favor of thoughtful interpretation to bring the reader to the spot where the reporter is to get a full view of the picture."

However, he cautioned against over-writing, and extending the facts so as to destroy accuracy.

Taking an opposite viewpoint, Richard Pourade, managing editor of the San Diego Union, said the reputation the AP has built over the years for objectivity might be reduced it it attempts to become the source as well as the conveyor of news through interpretive writing.

Fireworks, Ice Cream Planned For Bangkok Fairs In December

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The United States will dish out American ice cream to the kids and set off fireworks from a red, white and blue pylon at Bangkok, Thailand, fairs in early December.

Samuel W. Anderson, assistant to the secretary of commerce, said today the event will kick off a new program for official participation in foreign trade fairs.

About 100 U. S. firms will have exhibits at the Bangkok fairs, Anderson said. He said his international fairs division of the Commerce Department has scheduled official participation in nine fairs between December and June to "give the world a graphic picture of this nation's production for peace and human well being."

Huge Waves Smash Italian Port Walls

BARI, Italy, Nov. 17 (AP)—Tempest driven waves 45 feet high smashed over the seawalls of this ancient port today, flooding the old section of town and sweeping parts of houses out to sea.

A flood tide more than three feet deep rolled over historic Piazza Mercantile and poured into the crypt of the cathedral where the original Saint Nicholas, or Santa Claus, is buried.

Officials said no loss of life was reported.

Marines Win Backstage Pentagon Battle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) told the Senate today that the Marine Corps and their commandant have won a backstage battle at the Pentagon with top Navy admirals.

Mansfield, a former Marine, read the Senate a letter and directive which he said "corrected any misconceptions within the Department of the Navy as to the status of the Marine Corps and its commandant."

He said the documents recognize the intent of Congress that the "Marine commandant be directly responsible to the secretary of the Navy, and subordinate in no manner to the chief of Naval operations."

Mansfield and other lawmakers had inquired at the Pentagon about the truth of reports that Navy admirals were trying to gain more control over the Marine Corps.

In reply, Acting Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates sent copies of a policy memorandum issued last April by the then Secretary of the Navy Robert Anderson. Gates also wrote that the Marine Corps' relationship with the Navy is to be spelled out in an order now being prepared in the Navy Department.

The April memo called the Marines a "unique but not separate service." It gave the Navy secretary authority to assign to the chief of Naval operations responsibility for certain Marine Corps matters; the only Marine units placed under Navy command were those on duty aboard ships or at Navy shore stations. It stipulated that the Marine Corps commandant was to be directly responsible to the secretary of the Navy.

"This directive is reassuring," Mansfield said. "If it is obeyed—and I do not see why it shouldn't be obeyed — the proper status and functions will be accorded the Marine Corps and its commandant."

Mansfield called the policy memo and Gates' letter "a pointed rebuke to any claims that might be advanced for giving the chief of Naval operations any direct or indirect command authority over the Marine Corps."

Cabinet Takes Over Egypt Presidency

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Revolution Council headed by Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser tonight gave over to the Egyptian Cabinet the functions of the presidency of the republic.

The presidency was established June 18, 1953, when the council formally abolished the Egyptian monarchy and proclaimed the republic. The office had been vacant since last Sunday when Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib, Egypt's first and only president, was removed from office.

The Revolution Council controls the Cabinet, and its membership is largely interlocking. As Premier of the republic, military governor of Egypt and chairman of the council, the 36-year-old Lt. Col. Nasser is the undisputed boss of Egypt now.

Presbyterian Church Budget Is Adopted

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP) — The Foreign Missions Board of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. today adopted a $6,412,468 budget for 1955 — a $274,147 increase over the current budget.

Dr. Charles Leber, general secretary of the 50-member board, said the fund is to cover missionary work in 34 countries in Asia, Africa, Europe and Latin America.

Auto Workers To Plan Strike Fund

DETROIT, Nov. 17 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers union plans to set up a 25-million-dollar strike fund to enforce its demand for a guaranteed annual wage in the auto industry, it was learned today, to be raised by higher dues.

The increase, if approved at the UAW convention in Cleveland next March, would triple the present $2.50 monthly dues of the union's million-plus members.

The proposal was adopted by the union executive board and approved by 1,100 delegates to a UAW economic conference here last weekend. The move was supposed to have been kept secret.

Only a union convention can put a dues increase into effect. If the convention delegates approve, the dues will be boosted to $7.50 a month—the additional $5 to go into the strike fund.

The fund currently has about nine million in it. Union sources indicate that, barring a heavy drain on the fund, the 25 million figure would be reached in about three months.

The proposal calls for an automatic suspension of the dues increase when the 25 million ceiling is reached.

It also provides that anytime in the future the strike fund dips below the 15 million mark the $5 dues increase automatically would go back into effect.

Young Stevenson Inducted Into Army

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Borden Stevenson, 22, son of Adlai Stevenson, 1952 presidential candidate, was inducted into the Army today.

Coal Association Executive Suggests Study Of Problems

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17 (AP)—Tom Pickett, executive vice president of the National Coal Assn., today suggested a thorough review and study of the problems of the coal industry.

He spoke at the organization's 37th annual convention.

Such a study, Pickett said, should be made by a group large enough to be fully representative of the industry and small enough to be an effective working unit.

He added that the proposed study should cover all the industry's problems, including those created by government action.

Pickett declared coal producers neither expect nor seek preferential treatment. The industry wants "an opportunity to prosper in a competitive market on a fair basis, without restrictions and restraints imposed by government interference on one hand, and unimpaired and unhandicapped by government policies affording advantages to its competitors on the other."

Pickett reported to the members on the services rendered by the association in the fields of legislation and governmental regulation.

L. C. Campbell, president of the association, said in another speech that bituminous coal production is being hurt by non-realistic freight rates and unrestricted importation of cheap residual fuel oil.

Coal is "called upon to bear more than its fair share of total cost of railroad operations," Campbell said.

"Consequently efforts to hold markets for coal suffer, because the freight cost very often is more than the cost of coal at the mine."

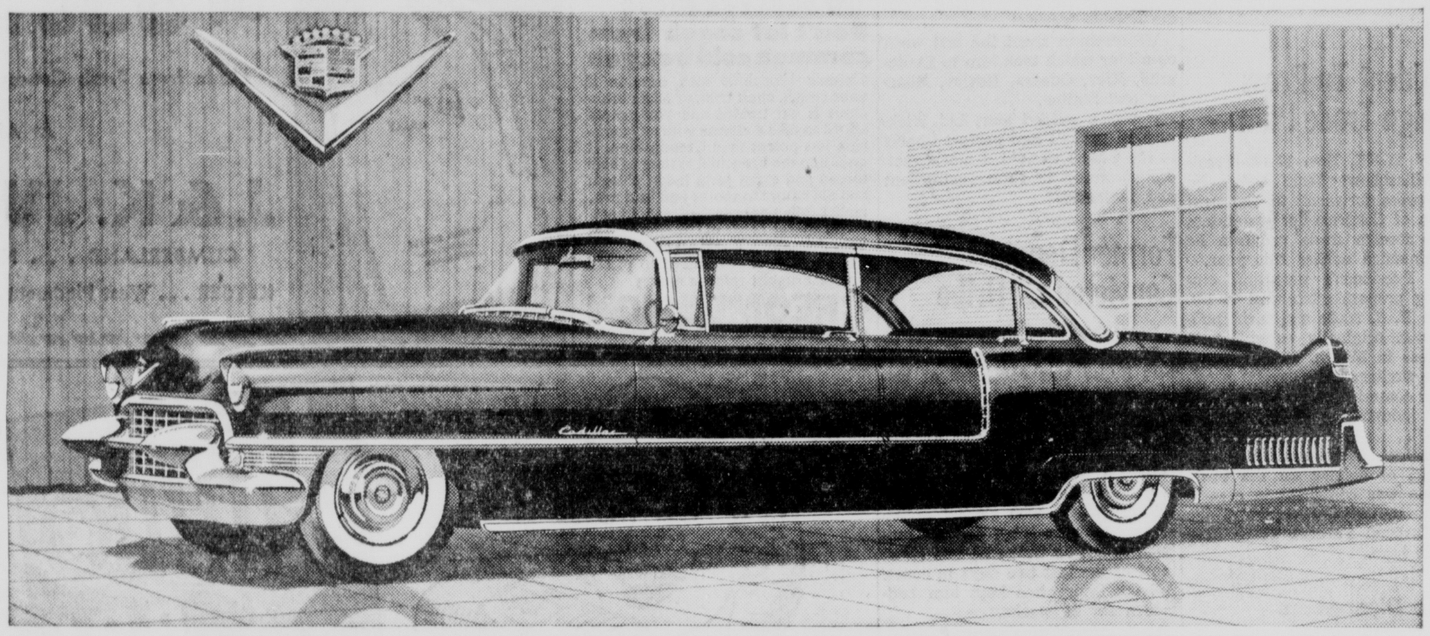

Delegates to the convention received a telegram from President Eisenhower, saying:

"The problems of your industry are being carefully studied by the government. Through this work and through the continued vigorous effort of the coal industry itself, I most earnestly hope that genuine and swift progress may be made toward their solution."

Air travel across the Atlantic is soaring and now amounts to 65 per cent of trans-Atlantic traffic. More than 4,000 people fly every week by tourist air class and nearly 3,000 by first class.

Bohlen Due To Return For White House Talk

Top Level Review Of Plane Incident

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, President Eisenhower's envoy to Moscow, is due back here for top level consultation on Soviet policy next week.

He is coming home in the midst of U. S. efforts to find out whether the Kremlin, which has been talking up peaceful coexistence, is willing to call a halt to the shooting down of American aircraft.

Bohlen's return was announced by the State Department today. The announcement came shortly after the department disclosed the text of a new protest note demanding the Soviet government take action to prevent a recurrence of fighter attacks such as that which downed a RB29 on Nov. 7 off Japan.

If Russia does not take "appropriate action," the note said, the United States will provide its aircraft in the future with "defensive protection." That looked like a warning that fighter escorts would accompany all planes flying in the vicinity of Soviet controlled areas.

The protest note conceded officially that the RB29 photographic plane which went down Nov. 7 had been operating in a disputed area. This was in line with President Eisenhower's comment last week that the issues in the case were not clear cut.

The aircraft, the note indicated, was attacked in the region of the Habomai Islands which are occupied and claimed by Russians but which the United States considers to be Japanese territory.

Today's note asked for "appropriate disciplinary measures" against those who caused the attack, in which one life was lost. But its main significance in the light of Moscow talks about coexistence and improving American-Soviet relations seemed to lie in these words:

"The United States government requests . . . all possible steps be taken to prevent the recurrence of such incidents which are in flagrant contradiction of recent statements by high Soviet officials that the Soviet Union seeks to abate international tension."

Bohlen has been a key figure in the development of United States policy toward the Soviet Union for many years, and still is.

On the day the RB29 was shot down by Soviet bombers, Bohlen went to a Kremlin dinner and spent half an hour talking with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

In that conversation, Malenkov advocated practical solutions of American-Soviet problems through diplomatic channels instead of letting them become big issues. The reference in today's note to recent statements by "high Soviet officials" appeared to be a reminder of the Premier's words.

Editors Divided On Amount Of Leeway Needed

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 17 (AP)—The nation's newspaper editors divided sharply today on the question of how much leeway should be given in interpreting news events and in using information from sources who refuse to be named.

The proposition at the first workshop session of The Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. provoked lively discussion, with three general viewpoints being expressed.

These are:

1. That good interpretive writing is nothing more than good reporting; that the newspaper owes it to readers to give them explanatory facts.

2. That the AP must be the reporter, not the source of news, and any lowering of the bars on attribution and interpretation would be dangerous with the AP being open to challenge from both sides of an issue.

3. That a middle of the road approach should be pursued, with each story coming from a source who declined to be named being weighed on its news merits, carefully checked and handled.

Michael J. Ogden, managing editor of the Providence Bulletin and Journal, said he took the position the reporter must go beyond the cold facts of a story, and provide the reader a descriptive setting for the news event as the AP did in coverage of the Sen. McCarthy-Army hearings.

"The reporter must act as the reader's eyes as well as his ears," Ogden said. "I would expect a description of the events to be a part of the story. I am in favor of thoughtful interpretation to bring the reader to the spot where the reporter is to get a full view of the picture."

However, he cautioned against over-writing, and extending the facts so as to destroy accuracy.

Taking an opposite viewpoint, Richard Pourade, managing editor of the San Diego Union, said the reputation the AP has built over the years for objectivity might be reduced it it attempts to become the source as well as the conveyor of news through interpretive writing.

Fireworks, Ice Cream Planned For Bangkok Fairs In December

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The United States will dish out American ice cream to the kids and set off fireworks from a red, white and blue pylon at Bangkok, Thailand, fairs in early December.

Samuel W. Anderson, assistant to the secretary of commerce, said today the event will kick off a new program for official participation in foreign trade fairs.

About 100 U. S. firms will have exhibits at the Bangkok fairs, Anderson said. He said his international fairs division of the Commerce Department has scheduled official participation in nine fairs between December and June to "give the world a graphic picture of this nation's production for peace and human well being."

Huge Waves Smash Italian Port Walls

BARI, Italy, Nov. 17 (AP)—Tempest driven waves 45 feet high smashed over the seawalls of this ancient port today, flooding the old section of town and sweeping parts of houses out to sea.

A flood tide more than three feet deep rolled over historic Piazza Mercantile and poured into the crypt of the cathedral where the original Saint Nicholas, or Santa Claus, is buried.

Officials said no loss of life was reported.

Maryland farmers can expect a continuation of the price-cost squeeze that caused 1954 cash farm receipts to drop 4 per cent below 1953.

This farm outlook for 1955 is given by George Stevens of the University of Maryland department of agricultural economics. He issued an outlook report recently after reviewing the agricultural situation with other members of the department and U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists.

The overall outlook for agriculture in 1955 is for very little change from this year. Stevens points out that continued strong domestic demand for agricultural products should prevent any sharp decline.

"By strong demand we mean that total consumer income probably will not change much during the coming year," he explains.

A slight increase in exports of agricultural goods is expected, and this also should help in preventing a decline. "Some countries will be in a better position during the year ahead to buy more of our tobacco, cotton, fats and oils," Stevens notes, "but little change is expected in the export demand for wheat."

Going back to the price-cost squeeze, Stevens sees, "no signs that the situation will improve much in 1955. No increase is seen in the prices received for major Maryland farm products, and indications are that farm costs will hold at about the present level."

The economist concluded that farmers must concentrate on efficient management in 1955 in order to keep net incomes up to 1954 levels.

Ham Radio Network Plan Announced By Maryland CD

A Maryland plan for operation of a radio amateur network in the event of an enemy attack has been approved, Sherley Ewing, state Civil Defense director, announced yesterday.

The Federal Communications Commission and The Federal Civil Defense Administration approved the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service (RACES) plan recently, he said.

Ewing said radio amateurs enrolled under the plan will furnish Civil Defense emergency radio communications "if normal communication services are disrupted."

The primary function of RACES if other means of communication no longer exist will be to "provide for coordination of State-wide Civil Defense operations between the main State Control Center at Pikesville, the Washington Mutual Support Area Control Center at College Park and the County Control Centers throughout the State.

Ewing said that the full value of the plan will not be realized until all counties have "a similarly approved plan to provide emergency communication between the County Control Centers, the various communities in each of the counties and the adjacent County Control Centers."

Ewing said the radio amateur operation will be limited at the time of disaster exclusively to those radio amateurs who have volunteered for Civil Defense and have been approved by FCC for RACES operations.

Extra kitchen work space can be made by covering the sink with a board.

Kimble Attacks Autonomy Act Of University

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—State Senator Robert Kimble said today he'll ask repeal of a bill which gives the University of Maryland a great measure of independence and cited as one reason refusal of the university regents to release a controversial evaluation report on the university.

The Allegany County Republican has asked the department of legislative reference to draft a repeal measure for introduction in the General Assembly next January.

It would repeal the 1953 act which granted autonomy to the university.

The university's Board of Regents has declined to release a report on the university prepared by the Middle Atlantic States accreditation group. The board said the report is confidential.

Kimble said one "glaring reason" for his action was the withholding of the report, adding:

"When the board has the audacity to refuse this report to the governor and the legislature something must be done."

Arguments are due Nov. 30 in a suit by Delegate Horace Whitworth (R-Allegany) to force release of the report to the legislature.

The evaluation report, made a year ago, was cited in the recent gubernatorial election by foes of Dr. H. C. Byrd, unsuccessful Democratic candidate and former president of the University.

Maryland farmers can expect a continuation of the price-cost squeeze that caused 1954 cash farm receipts to drop 4 per cent below 1953.

This farm outlook for 1955 is given by George Stevens of the University of Maryland department of agricultural economics. He issued an outlook report recently after reviewing the agricultural situation with other members of the department and U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists.

The overall outlook for agriculture in 1955 is for very little change from this year. Stevens points out that continued strong domestic demand for agricultural products should prevent any sharp decline.

"By strong demand we mean that total consumer income probably will not change much during the coming year," he explains.

A slight increase in exports of agricultural goods is expected, and this also should help in preventing a decline. "Some countries will be in a better position during the year ahead to buy more of our tobacco, cotton, fats and oils," Stevens notes, "but little change is expected in the export demand for wheat."

Going back to the price-cost squeeze, Stevens sees, "no signs that the situation will improve much in 1955. No increase is seen in the prices received for major Maryland farm products, and indications are that farm costs will hold at about the present level."

The economist concluded that farmers must concentrate on efficient management in 1955 in order to keep net incomes up to 1954 levels.

He and his wife, the parents of eight children, four daughters and four sons, recently celebrated their 46th wedding anniversary.

Since 1942, Bowers has been the chairman of the Citizens' Committee of Mt. Savage. For over 35 years, he has been treasurer of Jennings Run Council 15, Jr. O.U.-A.M. He has worked a total of 56 years, having started at age nine at the Mt. Savage brickyard.

Ham Radio Network Plan Announced By Maryland CD

A Maryland plan for operation of a radio amateur network in the event of an enemy attack has been approved, Sherley Ewing, state Civil Defense director, announced yesterday.

The Federal Communications Commission and The Federal Civil Defense Administration approved the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service (RACES) plan recently, he said.

Ewing said radio amateurs enrolled under the plan will furnish Civil Defense emergency radio communications "if normal communication services are disrupted."

The primary function of RACES if other means of communication no longer exist will be to "provide for coordination of State-wide Civil Defense operations between the main State Control Center at Pikesville, the Washington Mutual Support Area Control Center at College Park and the County Control Centers throughout the State.

Ewing said that the full value of the plan will not be realized until all counties have "a similarly approved plan to provide emergency communication between the County Control Centers, the various communities in each of the counties and the adjacent County Control Centers."

Ewing said the radio amateur operation will be limited at the time of disaster exclusively to those radio amateurs who have volunteered for Civil Defense and have been approved by FCC for RACES operations.

Extra kitchen work space can be made by covering the sink with a board.

Kimble Attacks Autonomy Act Of University

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—State Senator Robert Kimble said today he'll ask repeal of a bill which gives the University of Maryland a great measure of independence and cited as one reason refusal of the university regents to release a controversial evaluation report on the university.

The Allegany County Republican has asked the department of legislative reference to draft a repeal measure for introduction in the General Assembly next January.

It would repeal the 1953 act which granted autonomy to the university.

The university's Board of Regents has declined to release a report on the university prepared by the Middle Atlantic States accreditation group. The board said the report is confidential.

Kimble said one "glaring reason" for his action was the withholding of the report, adding:

"When the board has the audacity to refuse this report to the governor and the legislature something must be done."

Arguments are due Nov. 30 in a suit by Delegate Horace Whitworth (R-Allegany) to force release of the report to the legislature.

The evaluation report, made a year ago, was cited in the recent gubernatorial election by foes of Dr. H. C. Byrd, unsuccessful Democratic candidate and former president of the University.

Results Of Conelrad Defense Test Expected Within Month

Results of the nationwide test of "Conelrad," a plan to inform the public by radio during an enemy aerial attack without aiding hostile bombers may not be known for a month or more.

That's because of the scores of reports from hundreds of commercial stations which participated in the exercise between 1:30 and 4:30 this morning. Local station WDYK was on the regulation 1240 "Conelrad" frequency and participated in the test with scripts supplied by Civil Defense agencies.

William G. Barger, county CD director, today urged any one who might have heard the radio system to report to him on reception and their opinion of the warning setup. In event of attack, radios here should be turned to the 1240 frequency to receive instructions. All regular broadcasting would be discontinued.

Communications officials estimated in advance that 1,300 of the nation's 2,000 radio stations would take part in the fourth annual test of the "Conelrad" system, from 1:30 to 4:30 a. m., local time.

Air Force planes ranged across the country and off the coasts during the drill, checking whether the broadcasts could be used as a navigational aid.

All stations in an area used the same wave length and the same program, with each transmitting the program on a rotation plan designed to keep no single station on the air for more than 10 to 30 seconds at a time. None of the stations identified themselves.

Compensation Is Denied In Silicosis Work Claim

A former Amcelle plant worker for the Celanese Corporation was again denied rights to compensation for silicosis when his appeal from the State Industrial Accident Commission was heard yesterday before Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Edward Taylor of the Hyndman area had filed a claim against the Celanese Corporation for compensation as a result of allegedly having contracted silicosis at the plant.

Taylor worked at Amcelle from 1937 to 1952 as a helper in the sheet metal shop. There, the testimony revealed, he used in the course of his work a grinding wheel that had no exhaust.

It was revealed at the hearings before the judge, the accident commission and the commission's Medical Board, that Taylor had worked 30 years in coal mines before going with Celanese.

The Medical Board, after examination of his case, agreed with the fact that Taylor had silicosis, but the board ruled that Taylor had contracted it before being employed by Celanese.

The judge, after hearing testimony presented by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for Taylor, and William H. Geppart, attorney for Celanese, upheld the ruling of the accident commission that he had not contracted the lung disease at Amcelle, but at some previous employment.

The State Industrial Accident laws were not in effect during the time Taylor worked in coal mines, and therefore no compensation can be obtained from those companies, Ryan pointed out.

Every moment of your evening at home can be a step to greater beauty and charm.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your ingenuity is challenged when plans for the evening are changed. You're unexpectedly at home, far from the anticipated bright lights. Will you waste the hours away, or fill them with long-put-off projects?

I asked a few of the Powers Girls how they'd busy themselves during an unplanned evening alone. Their answers add up to these plots for a one-character play.

Indulge hair and scalp with an oil treatment, to restore sheen and gloss. Give yourself the permanent you've been promising, or experiment with different hair styles. You can pre-judge a style by lathering your hair, blotting it on a towel, and arranging it in varied ways.

Good Posture?

Test your body alignment to see if posture is progressing to perfection. Line your back up against a wall so that your head, shoulders, back, and heels touch it. If there is no more than a fingertip's distance between your waist and the wall, you pass! Your body is correctly aligned. If not, you need posture practice, and this free evening is a good time for it. Send for my booklet, "Your Posture" (see below), as a guide in correcting posture problems.

Inventory your clothes closet and the drawers of your dressing table. Press the clothes that are wrinkled and wilted. Polish the scuffed shoes. Set aside any wearables that would be more wearable with cleaning or professional repair. Make a list of your beauty needs as you discard the tagends of lipstick, nail polish, and so forth.

Plan your next dinner party — your guest list, what you will serve, what you'll wear—so the occasion will be a special success.

Matters of Mind

Read the magazines that have accumulted, the ones you merely leafed through when you brought them home. Get out a book you haven't found time to look at, and let your solitude be a relaxing period for the improvement of your mind as well as the renewal of your beauty.

These ideas, I'm sure, will suggest others. Even if you can't check off all of the tasks you'd like in a single evening, you'll still have a fine record (and feeling) of accomplishment when your clock says it's time for sleep.

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree — to make yours the posture ideal — to improve stanace, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE." For a copy, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

Test your body alignment to see if posture is progressing to perfection. Line your back up against a wall so that your head, shoulders, back, and heels touch it. If there is no more than a fingertip's distance between your waist and the wall, you pass! Your body is correctly aligned. If not, you need posture practice, and this free evening is a good time for it. Send for my booklet, "Your Posture" (see below), as a guide in correcting posture problems.

Inventory your clothes closet and the drawers of your dressing table. Press the clothes that are wrinkled and wilted. Polish the scuffed shoes. Set aside any wearables that would be more wearable with cleaning or professional repair. Make a list of your beauty needs as you discard the tagends of lipstick, nail polish, and so forth.

Plan your next dinner party — your guest list, what you will serve, what you'll wear—so the occasion will be a special success.

Matters of Mind

Read the magazines that have accumulted, the ones you merely leafed through when you brought them home. Get out a book you haven't found time to look at, and let your solitude be a relaxing period for the improvement of your mind as well as the renewal of your beauty.

These ideas, I'm sure, will suggest others. Even if you can't check off all of the tasks you'd like in a single evening, you'll still have a fine record (and feeling) of accomplishment when your clock says it's time for sleep.

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree — to make yours the posture ideal — to improve stanace, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE." For a copy, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

Census Bureau Unloads Bushel Of Figures

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Census Bureau, which gets as big a kick out of numbers as Univac, unloaded a bushelful of them on the American public today. It said, for instance, that you owe $1,666.11 on the national debt.

It said, too, that you received 350 pieces of mail last year. That is, you did if you're the average American citizen.

These and half a million other numerical facts are spelled out in the 75th anniversary edition of the Statistical Abstract of the United States.

Off the presses today, the book can be had for $3.75 by writing the Government Printing Office. It has 1,056 fact-packed pages.

It tells you, for instance, that widows outnumber widowers by better than 3 to 1, that the average American family has 3½ children. It doesn't say what one does with half a child.

Other statistics:

In 1879, there were 50 million persons in this country; now there are more than 160 million.

In 1879, the nation had about eight million non-farm workers; now it has 52 million.

In 1879, school teachers were paid $195 a year; now they get $3,000.

The big book turns up some unexplained gems. It says, for instance, that 75 years ago there were a million more women than men in the country but that today, there are a million more men than women.

These men and women are marrying at the rate of 1½ million a year and getting divorced at the rate of 388,000 a year. That means there is one divorce for every four marriages.

Believe it or not, in the last counted year, 1951, there were 407 divorces between husbands and wives who had been married over 40 years.

As if you didn't know it, the dollar doesn't buy as much as it used to be. Compared to the post World War II years of 1947-49, today's dollar will buy 87 cents worth of what you want.

Tomatoes were considered good only for hog food at one time and men who claimed they were good for humans were ridiculed.

Visit Is Planned To Hoye's Crest

The two top officials of the State Department of Forests and Parks will be in Garrett County today to visit Hoye's Crest on Backbone Mountain, the highest point in Maryland.

They are Joseph F. Kaylor, director, and H. C. Buckingham, state forester.

They will be joined at Oakland by Paul Naylor, of Oakland, a member of the State Commission of Forests and Parks, and William H. Johnson, this city, district 1 forester.

Hoye's Crest, the highest point in Maryland, 3,360 feet above sea level, has been mentioned as a site for a state park, it was learned yesterday.

The point, owned by the Western Maryland Railway, and located near the West Virginia line, was named in honor of Capt. Charles Hoye of Hoyes, the president of the Garrett County Historical Society for many years.

An access road would have to be built over the mountain terrain to afford the public availability of the highest point as a park, it was pointed out.

Girl Bitten By Fox While Playing In Yard

Victim of the attack was Pattie Kesner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Kesner, Knobley Mountain Road.

William Waller, head of the Keyser office of the State Health Department, said the youngster was playing in her yard when the fox made the attacl., biting her on the leg and arm.

She was treated by Dr. Robert Brown at Fort Ashby and returned home. Waller said the head of the fox has been sent to the State Health Department, Charleston, to determine if the animal was rabid.

Waller said that the child's uncle, Orville Kesner, heard her scream and rushed in the yard to see the cause. Kesner's dog fought the animal and Kesner finally shot it.

Contract Approved By Paper Workers

WILLIAMSBURG, Pa. (AP)—About 385 members of Local 677 CIO United Paper Workers yesterday unanimously ratified a new contract with the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co.

The pact calls for a five-cent across the board wage increase. It was ratified by two other CIO locals, one at Luke, Md., and the other at Covington, Va., Monday.

Since the new contract was accepted by all three locals prior to Thursday, the wage increase starts today.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Delegation Hopes To Keep 2 Judgeships For County

If two Allegany County legislators have anything to do with it, this county will keep its two judges.

Senator Robert B. Kimble and Del. Estel C. Kelley were in agreement that a bill to insure this will be introduced in the 1955 session which begins January 5.

The constitutional amendment approved by the voters of Maryland that changed the judiciary system in circuit courts will take one judge away from this county.

Traditionally, Allegany County, because of the press of legal business has had two judges.

But one of the provisions of the amendment is that Garrett County will get a resident judge. As only three judges are provided for the Fourth Circuit comprised of Allegany, Washington and Garrett counties, this means that one of the Allegany County judges will be eliminated when one of the two leaves office.

As the bill that provided for the amendment passed the House with an amendment giving Allegany County two judges, but the Senate killed this provision.

The legal fraternity of this county has been alive with talk about keeping the second judge.

Senator Kimble and Delegates Charles M. See, Lester B. Reed, Noel Speir Cook, and Estel C. Kelley were polled and the majority opinion was that concerted effort was to be made along these lines in the 1955 session.

The judgeship amendment also allows the legislature to control the number of judges in any county.

Senator Kimble, contacted in Baltimore where he is attending daily meetings of the Legislation Council, said he is definitely going to introduce a bill giving Allegany County two judges.

He said the amendment taking away the one judge should be corrected as far as this county is concerned.

Del. Kelley went along with Senator Kimble. He said "I can't speak for the delegation, but I feel in view of the stand taken by the House in passing the two-judges-for-Allegany-County provision last session, we should repeat our effort."

He pointed to the Allegany measure passing in the House but losing in the Senate. "The House is already on record as to its stand. This county is growing and is going to continue to grow. The press of court business today warrants two judges and will be more necessary in the future to keep up with the county's growth," he declared.

Del. See, who is chairman of the delegation, said he had not been contacted by any group in regards to introducing such a bill, but he added:

"I won't be surprised if they do."

Del. Cook, who did not vote on the judgeship amendment bill when it passed the House, was of the opinion that the chances of getting another judge for this county will not be so good after the treatment the bill received in the Senate.

"We might feel around this session and see what the possibilities are, though," he added.

Del. Reed said the issue of a two-judge bill is "purely speculative." While he admitted he had heard that groups are pressuring for the bill to be introduced, he said he did not know anything definite about it.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, the other delegate who was in Annapolis last March, was on vacation and could not be contacted.

Contacted last night, Del-Elect George Hughes Jr. said he is in favor of Allegany County having two judges since this county has more than twice as much legal business as neighboring Garrett County.

He also said he is under the impression that the amendment voted upon by the people during the general election didn't tell "the whole story," and explain that Allegany County would lose a judge in the change of judiciary system.

Bank Debits Gain Listed

Bank debits here in September were $1,280,000 more than in the same month a year ago, a report of the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, Va., showed yesterday.

Bank debits in September totaled $25,516,000 compared to $24,236,000 in that month of 1953. For the nine months ending in September, however, debits were running behind the 1953 figure with $213,755,000 compared to $227,699,000.

Both Frederick and Hagerstown's bank debits were also below 1953 totals for the nine months and Baltimore City reported only a slight increase. Hagerstown debits last September were down over a million dollars and Frederick's $796,000, the report notes.

Local building increased sharply in September over that month last year on estimates of $88,926 compared to $46,950. For the nine months, city building figures were also up on $570,851 to $487,240 for the same period a year ago.

Club Acquitted Of Illegal Sale Of Beer

A "borderline" case involving the alleged sale of beer to a minor ended in Police Court yesterday with the acquittal of George E. Owings, operator of the South End Republican Club on Virginia Avenue.

Owings pleaded not guilty at a hearing Tuesday, and Magistrate J. Milton Dick withheld a decision until yesterday morning.

"I hope my decision is not wrong, both for your sake and for mine."

Owings faced charges on the complaint of police who said Donald I. Davidson, 19, of RD 5, Winchester Road, signed a sworn statement admitting he "bought a round" of beer for himself and four older companions in the club October 12. He testified the group was in the place.

According to Davidson he paid for the beer with a $10 bill while seated in a booth. Two waitresses denied having served the youth or having seen him with his friends.

Davidson's companions also signed sworn affidavits corroborating his testimony, but the documents were not submitted as evidence at the trial. The statements were taken into the State's Attorney's office.

During the hearing, defense attorney Earl E. Manges objected to the reading of Davidson's statement by City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan.

Magistrate Dick said his decision to render a not guilty verdict was largely due to the testimony of Mrs. Wanda Kline, who visited the club the night the alleged violation was said to have occurred.

Both Mrs. Kline and a Mrs. Rodabaugh, another patron, stated emphatically that they did not see Davidson and the other young men in the place during the mentioned time.

Bank Debits Gain Listed

Bank debits here in September were $1,280,000 more than in the same month a year ago, a report of the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, Va., showed yesterday.

Bank debits in September totaled $25,516,000 compared to $24,236,000 in that month of 1953. For the nine months ending in September, however, debits were running behind the 1953 figure with $213,755,000 compared to $227,699,000.

Both Frederick and Hagerstown's bank debits were also below 1953 totals for the nine months and Baltimore City reported only a slight increase. Hagerstown debits last September were down over a million dollars and Frederick's $796,000, the report notes.

Local building increased sharply in September over that month last year on estimates of $88,926 compared to $46,950. For the nine months, city building figures were also up on $570,851 to $487,240 for the same period a year ago.

Club Acquitted Of Illegal Sale Of Beer

A "borderline" case involving the alleged sale of beer to a minor ended in Police Court yesterday with the acquittal of George E. Owings, operator of the South End Republican Club on Virginia Avenue.

Owings pleaded not guilty at a hearing Tuesday, and Magistrate J. Milton Dick withheld a decision until yesterday morning.

"I hope my decision is not wrong, both for your sake and for mine."

Owings faced charges on the complaint of police who said Donald I. Davidson, 19, of RD 5, Winchester Road, signed a sworn statement admitting he "bought a round" of beer for himself and four older companions in the club October 12. He testified the group was in the place.

According to Davidson he paid for the beer with a $10 bill while seated in a booth. Two waitresses denied having served the youth or having seen him with his friends.

Davidson's companions also signed sworn affidavits corroborating his testimony, but the documents were not submitted as evidence at the trial. The statements were taken into the State's Attorney's office.

During the hearing, defense attorney Earl E. Manges objected to the reading of Davidson's statement by City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan.

Magistrate Dick said his decision to render a not guilty verdict was largely due to the testimony of Mrs. Wanda Kline, who visited the club the night the alleged violation was said to have occurred.

Both Mrs. Kline and a Mrs. Rodabaugh, another patron, stated emphatically that they did not see Davidson and the other young men in the place during the mentioned time.

In comparison with other members of the solar system, the earth is the "seawater planet." More than 70 per cent of its surface is covered with sea water.

"Comrade agent reports U. S. slave worker disinterested in seizing power . . . is only interested in struggle for horsepower! . . ."

On The Line

by Bob Considine

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17—(INS)—Among the scores of letters I received today from the Ratanakosin Hotel, which (of course) is in Bangkok, Thailand, was one from INS correspondent Marvin Stone, relating the partial saga of a unique U. S. ambassador who carries a vaulting pole instead of a portfolio.

Marv tells it better:

"This name is already in the Olympic record books, on the Sullivan Trophy and the Helms award. But as I see it, President Eisenhower ought to give Bob Richards the White House, or some such recognition.

"Bob's been doing a split week in India. He's the greatest thing that has hit Calcutta since they cleaned out the black hole. He's been traveling around places like Mysore and Bombay, Poona and Madras, pole-vaulting and — more than just incidentally — making friends in a country where America could use a few.

"One of the things I was interested in when I landed in Bombay was to gauge the real extent of anti-Americanism. I'd heard it was deep-rooted and open, and in fact it is. Actually, I was ready to give up on the place until I heard about the Richards story.

"Wasn't off the plane five minutes when the British Overseas Airways porter (incidentally, BOAC gives tremendous service) a little Indian lad, asked in halting English whether I knew Richards. Said I knew of him, but had never met the fellow . . . why?

"Boy says 'Mr. Richards good American, teaching Indians how to win next Olympics.'

"For the next week there wasn't a newspaper in India I picked up that didn't give Richards more space than Red China. He'd been traveling around since Sept. 14 demonstrating the pole vault technique and other decathlon events to Indian athletes and to starting to Indian athletics and to stadiums crowded wit hIndian fans.

"I'd say Richards, who accompanied his demonstrations with a little talk on good sportsmanship, reached 3,000,000 Indians, either personally or through the pages of papers like the Times of India, the Madras Hindu or the Calcutta Statesman.

"It's no fun touring Indian, East Lynne is heaven by comparison. But Rev. Richards hit the road and I guess he succeeded in selling American sports (and thus, America) to more Indians than Nehru could possibly hope to disenchant in a year's time.

"The Olympic diver, Sammy Lee, preceded Richards by a month and I understand he captivated the Indians with his diving skill. It's a shame that Uncle Sam can't dig up a few thousand dollars to send abroad other American athletes. They're a lot more effective than comic books in making friends for our side.

"Anyway, as the Hindu said, Richards's visit was 'a great day for Madras' and I sort of suspect it was a lot greater for all of us."

Mr. Stone brings up a point which has been generally ignored by the State Department since its organization. There is no reason to believe that any recognition henceforth will be made of the efficacy of sports as a soother of ruffled feelings.

But I'd bet J. F. Dulles a hat that he could do a lot worse than keep a stream of great U. S. athletes fanning through the world. Not as officials of the State Department, of course. Some of them wouldn't know how to extend a pinkie properly at the insufferable teas that waste the hours of diplomacy. I'd suggest they go in the semi-semi capacity of touring scholars or as a part of an organization akin to the Voice of America.

In fact, how about a "muscle of America" organization? Rocky Marciano, the heavyweight champion of the world, was a poor kid around Brockton, Mass. Now he's one of the most famous and beloved Americans. Send him through Italy and Communism there would be set back a dozen years. Trouble in the Belgian Congo? Send Willie Mays.

And so on down the line. Who dares say the plan would flop? Our sports champs are priceless national resources. Why keep sending a lesser material named money?

Cumberland Finishes 26th In Pedestrian Safety Event

Cumberland finished 26th among 198 cities in the 25,000-50,000 population class of the 1953 National Pedestrian Safety Contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association, Washington.

Ratings are based on reports submitted to the AAA which said the city's record last year was "good." Cumberland finished with 71 per cent of the possible total points, the report said, with the top 30 cities in the group receiving at least 64 per cent. The leader, Belmont, Mass., had 88.

The report was discussed yesterday morning at a conference among Mayor Roy W. Eves, Major Ruxton Ridgely, of the Maryland State Police; Richard A. Hartman, director of safety and public relations of the AAA; Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation for Allegany County public schools; and B. Frank Gaffney, acting police chief.

The report deals with two phases of safety: Actual death and injury; and program for pedestrian safety. Cumberland's casualty record score was above standard and the city also registered high on three of the categories listed in the report.

Among the records shown are:

Death and injury — The city scored 76 per cent of the possible total and finished 49th in this category among 198 cities. There were no fatalities but 85 pedestrian injuries, an increase over the average of the past two years. In 1951 there were 73 pedestrian injuries and in 1952 there were 69.

Accident records: The city attained an 87 percent rating in this phase of the program and finished 23rd among the cities.

Organization—Cumberland rated 65 per cent and ranked 79th.

Public information—64 per cent with a ranking of 49th.

Legislation and enforcement—The city was rated at 44 per cent and ranked 10th.

Engineering—A rating of 50 per cent was given Cumberland which placed it 133rd in its class. The city reported 71 man days a year for each 10,000 population spent on maintenance of signs, street markings, signs, etc. Leading cities devoted 238 man days a year for the same number of residents.

Summation of all the reports received resulted in general recommendations, many of which have been in effect here for some time, for the cities in this population class.

For example under school safety, it was recommended that these cities plan activities to encourage students to take the safest route to and from school; plan activities to improve morale and efficiency of school safety patrols; urge elementary schools to devote at least an hour a week to teaching traffic safety; the need for increasing the number of supervised playgrounds should be studied; recommended that all high schools offer driver education with behind-the-wheel instruction for every student.

As for legislation and enforcement of pedestrian laws it was urged that those on mid-block crossing and obeying of traffic signals be stressed; that intoxicated pedestrians be detained; studies be made to determine need for additional officers or adult guards at school crossings; streets adjacent to schools be banned to parking on the school side 30 minutes before and 30 minutes after dismissal; set a minimum of 20 feet as the distance parking be allowed from crosswalks.

Cumberland Finishes 26th In Pedestrian Safety Event

Cumberland finished 26th among 198 cities in the 25,000-50,000 population class of the 1953 National Pedestrian Safety Contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association, Washington.

Ratings are based on reports submitted to the AAA which said the city's record last year was "good." Cumberland finished with 71 per cent of the possible total points, the report said, with the top 30 cities in the group receiving at least 64 per cent. The leader, Belmont, Mass., had 88.

The report was discussed yesterday morning at a conference among Mayor Roy W. Eves, Major Ruxton Ridgely, of the Maryland State Police; Richard A. Hartman, director of safety and public relations of the AAA; Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation for Allegany County public schools; and B. Frank Gaffney, acting police chief.

The report deals with two phases of safety: Actual death and injury; and program for pedestrian safety. Cumberland's casualty record score was above standard and the city also registered high on three of the categories listed in the report.

Among the records shown are:

Death and injury — The city scored 76 per cent of the possible total and finished 49th in this category among 198 cities. There were no fatalities but 85 pedestrian injuries, an increase over the average of the past two years. In 1951 there were 73 pedestrian injuries and in 1952 there were 69.

Accident records: The city attained an 87 percent rating in this phase of the program and finished 23rd among the cities.

Organization—Cumberland rated 65 per cent and ranked 79th.

Public information—64 per cent with a ranking of 49th.

Legislation and enforcement—The city was rated at 44 per cent and ranked 10th.

Engineering—A rating of 50 per cent was given Cumberland which placed it 133rd in its class. The city reported 71 man days a year for each 10,000 population spent on maintenance of signs, street markings, signs, etc. Leading cities devoted 238 man days a year for the same number of residents.

Summation of all the reports received resulted in general recommendations, many of which have been in effect here for some time, for the cities in this population class.

For example under school safety, it was recommended that these cities plan activities to encourage students to take the safest route to and from school; plan activities to improve morale and efficiency of school safety patrols; urge elementary schools to devote at least an hour a week to teaching traffic safety; the need for increasing the number of supervised playgrounds should be studied; recommended that all high schools offer driver education with behind-the-wheel instruction for every student.

As for legislation and enforcement of pedestrian laws it was urged that those on mid-block crossing and obeying of traffic signals be stressed; that intoxicated pedestrians be detained; studies be made to determine need for additional officers or adult guards at school crossings; streets adjacent to schools be banned to parking on the school side 30 minutes before and 30 minutes after dismissal; set a minimum of 20 feet as the distance parking be allowed from crosswalks.

"Glottochronology" Helps Trace History

Not all scientific discoveries are in the realm of the so-called "natural sciences" like chemistry and biology and physics. There is much of natural science in psychology, but it is mainly limited to such matters as the manner in which the eye sees or the ear hears; physiology and neurology are basic to psychology.

Yet the social sciences are adding vastly to the body of scientific lore. Consider for instance the results of a study being made in the Philippines by a team of anthropologists from the University of Chicago. They are working among the pagan peoples of Mountain Province in Luzon to try to learn why tribes separated only by mountains showed wide differences in culture.

And that was the key to some of the mystery. An American linguist named Morris Swadesh had found that the "fundamental" vocabulary of all languages changes at a constant rate. As reported by the Carnegie Corporation, which helps to finance the Philippine study, a language retains approximately 81 per cent of its basic words after 1,000 years.

"Two languages separated for 1,000 years have about 66 per cent of their basic vocabulary in common—that is, 81 per cent of 81 per cent. By finding the percentage of words which two languages have in common, a linguistic scientist can estimate whether they stem from a common source and when they branched off from it."

This is called "glottochronology." By its index the scientists figure that two main groups in Luzon shared a common language about 1400 A. D. The enthusiastic scientists are sure they have a real tool for building the history of prehistoric man as to his migrations. They are confident they will estimate closely, for example, the period in which the ancestors of Pacific islanders arrived from the Asian mainland.

As a fascinating process of inductive reasoning this matches the new "carbon 12" technique for fixing the age of organic matter, like human bones, by their stage in losing radioactivity.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

I & E Program

During World War II, I called attention on several occasions to the astonishing material issued by the Army under its Information and Education Program, which failed to stress patriotism, loyalty to country, traditional American ideals but went into the business of making Soviet Russia increasingly popular among our troops.

It is because of the curious twist of this indoctrination activity that I carefully read the contents of a pamphlet entitled "20th Century Minutemen, a Report to the President on a Reserve Forces Training Program."

This document was issued by the National Security Training Commission of which General Julius Ochs Adler is chairman. Everything in this report goes along swimmingly as long as I read about military activities but when I reached the non-military activities, I came across the old I & E Program which continues to puzzle me. According to this, the Army is to function under four precepts:

". . . (1) The dignity of the individual as a basic concept of democracy; (2) democracy's respect for the truth as contrasted with communism; (3) the sovereignty of the people, rule by the will of the majority rather than the edict of a few; and (4) spiritual values basic to a democratic philosophy."

This looks very good, but what does it mean? What precisely does the use of the word, democracy, mean in this context? Why cannot these precepts deal with the United States, which is a definable entity, instead of with democracy, which no one can define? I should like whoever wrote this report to explain what "democracy's respect for the truth" means and how that respect is to be implemented. By truth does the author mean the Natural Law as defined by Thomas Aquinas or pragmatism as defined by John Dewey?

The next paragraph in the pamphlet is still more interesting. It says:

"The Chaplain's Corps will conduct the lectures on marriage and family life, religion, and moral principles, and other instructors will give the lectures on democratic responsibility, government, and sex education. They will not be 'indoctrination.' They are to present the principles which are generally accepted by the great majority of the people, without personal embellishments."

What is meant by "democratic responsibility?" In the United States, we enjoy the benefits of government by law. The citizen is responsible for his conduct under the law. If he commits treason and is caught, he goes the way of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, or if he is not caught in time, he may go the way of Alger Hiss. Nowhere in our laws is the citizen bound by such a concept as "democratic responsibility." In the mores of our people, a man is bound by moral obligations, which apparently is for the chaplains to talk about. There used to be a term, civic duties, which dealt with the nature of citizenship. But I cannot fathom what is meant by "democratic responsibility."

So I go to the next paragraph which expands the subject:

"For example, the lecture on democratic responsibility will emphasize the role each individual plays in the preservation of peace and the ideals of the United States . . ."

But the individual plays no part in the preservation of peace. He knows nothing about it. John Foster Dulles and his enormous staff go to conferences and make various deals but the citizen only knows about them when the chain of events is moving in the direction of war or peace. For instance, what would the individual in the Army Reserve have had to say about whether the United States was to go into the Korean War or to stay out of it? Nobody asked him. As a matter of fact, no one even asked the Congress.

Those who complain about conformity ought to look at page 127 of this program. There is stated:

"Instructors in nonmilitary subjects should strive to present the broadest and most generally accepted principles of our society . . ."

What are the "most generally accepted principles of our society" that can be taught in a few months to reservists? And why should they be lectured about any "generally accepted principles of our society?" For instance, Protestant Christianity is the majority religion of this country. Are its principles the most generally accepted in our society? If so, are they to be taught by civilian instructors to Catholic, Jewish, Moslem and Buddhist Americans? There is something queerly conformist in all this.

Anticipated Senate Vote On Censure Of Sen. McCarthy Now Crystallizing

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here are the hard-core Republican senators who Joe McCarthy expects will vote for him: Bricker, Ohio; Bridges, N. H.; Butler, Md.; Dirksen, Ill.; Goldwater, Ariz.; Jenner, Ind.; Malone, Nev.; Mundt, S. D., and Welker, Idaho.

Here are other Republicans who may either go along with Joe or favor a compromise: Capehart, Ind.; Hickenlooper, Iowa; Knowland, Calif.; Langer, N. D.; Martin, Pa.; Schoeppel, Kans., and Wiley, Wisc. Others who are wavering include Barrett, Wyo.; Beall, Md., and Dworshak, Idaho.

If McCarthy gets two Democrats, as he claims privately, they'll probably be Eastland of Mississippi and Daniel of Texas. Another Democrat, Lennon of North Carolina, made some pro-McCarthy cracks when he arrived in Washington, but got burned by them; while Holland of Florida is another who might possibly stray from the Democratic fold.

Army Favors EBASCO

Congressman Chet Holifield of California has run across some interesting connections between the Army, the public utility lobby and the Atomic Energy Commission. His discoveries make it appear that the Army Engineers are hand in glove with Electric Bond and Share, the big holding company which is behind the Dixon-Yates contract.

Holified also pointed up the fact that the Atomic Energy Commission is now dominated by military men, though Congress carefully passed a law providing for civilian control of the atom.

What Holifield discovered was a letter from Maj. Gen. B. L. Robinson of the Army Engineers to another general, Kenneth Nichols, manager of the Atomic Energy Commission. It read: "Dear Ken—For your information, herewith is copy of a letter from Johnny Hardin verifying his position with relation to the location of the Dixon-Yates steam plant." The letter was signed, "Robby."

General Robinson enclosed another letter from Gen. John Hardin, also of the Army Engineers, who had written "Robby" (Robinson) about meeting with "representatives of EBASCO" (Electric Bond and Share) on a proposed site for the plant near West Memphis, Tenn.

Then General Hardin added some interesting intelligence in a postscript: "They (EBASCO representatives)," he said, "seemed pleased with the conference. We aimed to be helpful, rather than obstructive."

While Republican committee members fidgeted, Congressman Holifield pressed General Nicholas for an explanation of that unusual language. He maintained that the Army Engineers should have been neutral, rather than either "helpful" or "obstructive."

"Obstructive" General

Nichols, however, hedged: "I do not know the meaning of that."

Holifield was not satisfied.

"When I read this letter," he said, "I wondered about the postscript, because it so happens that I was chairman of the Military Housing Subcommittee in Alaska when General Hardin was in the Pentagon, and the particulars I received from General Hardin and the difficulty I had then indicated to me that he must have looked upon my inquiry with a little bit different opinion than he did yours.

"I attach special significance to this," continued Holifield, "and think that in the future, if I have to deal with Johnny, I will come to Ken and ask Ken to give me a letter."

The humor was lost completely on Gen. "Ken" Nichols.

"I would be pleased to do that, sir," he replied stiffly.

"As I look at this (the Dixon-Yates contract)," continued Holifield, "I could almost believe that it is a military operation. We have General Johnny and General Robby and Colonel Mitcham and General Kenneth. And we have the commander-in-chief, General Eisenhower, and Admiral Strauss (chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission).

"So it looks like a military operation, and I wonder if the cooperation had anything to do with the conception of the line of command."

By this time, even Republican committee colleagues were laughing. But General Nichols just didn't think there was anything funny about it at all.

NOTE—The giant Electric Bond and Share Corporation, which the Army Engineers seems to favor, was investigated by Hugo Black before he left the Senate for the Supreme Court and was one reason for passage of the Holding Corporation Act to disband the big holding companies and their grip on local utilities. The Dixon-Yates investigation has shown that Electric Bond and Share still dominates local utilities in the South, despite the Holding Corporation Act.

Outside Interference

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse is sorry he let himself be talked into campaigning against fiery Democrat Wayne Hays, congressman from Ohio's 14th District.

Safely re-elected, Hays phoned Morse last week and sarcastically told him: "I'm sorry I wasn't around to return the greeting when you came to say hello last month, but I was busy campaigning."

Morse was duly embarrassed and mumbled something about "nothing personal."

"I thought you'd like to know," Hays continues, "that this was the first election in which I carried the county where you spoke. Before, it had always gone Republican.

"You're welcome any time you want to visit," Hays concluded cheerily.

NOTE — Ironically, Undersecretary Morse didn't want to get mixed up in the Ohio campaign and did so only after much urging from GOP Chairman Len Hall.

Debate Started By Knowland Is Warning To Russia

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Everybody in the government here, including the Congress, seems to be in favor of "co-existence" with Soviet Russia but nobody is quite sure it's going to be "peaceful."

That's the crux of the debate precipitated Tuesday by Senator Knowland, Republican of California, majority leader, who wants to discuss frankly and in the open just what the present Communist activities in the world really mean.

This doesn't mean that Mr. Konwland is necessarily at variance with the White House. Nor is there any real evidence that either the President or the secretary of state are averse to having the Senat debate the issues. For it is apparent that, as Secretary Dulles himself told a press conference after the Knowland speech, there is some difference of opinion between Moscow and Washington as to just what "peaceful co-existence" means.

Fear Distortion Of Meaning

So far as this government and perhaps also most all of the Western countries known as a part of the free world are concerned, "peaceful co-existence" means honorable intercourse, a willingness to keep out of each other's affairs, and particularly it means the absence of any aggression.

But the suspicion here, which is shared by the executive branch of the government, is that, just as the Soviet Union claims it is a "democracy," so will it also distort the meaning of "peaceful co-existence."

To the United States, "peaceful co-existence" does not mean the repeated shooting down of planes on peaceful errands or a threat to invade weaker countries such as is now being witnessed in the Far East and Southeast Asia.

Since it is apparent that Moscow isn't sincere and refuses to be peaceful, the debate on what "co-existence" means has been opened up in timely fashion by Senator Knowland. There are indications that Senator Lyndon Johnson, who speaks as Democratic party leader, and other Democrats in Congress are aware of the importance of full discussion, especially as it relates to the meaning of "peaceful co-existence." It is of the utmost importance, too, that Soviet Russia should not misconstrue the meaning of the last election. In Britain, Clement Attlee of the Labor party was quoted not long ago as saying that a Democratic victory in the congressional elections would mean a change in America's stand against admission of Red China into the United Nations.

There are some Democrats, like Senator Hennings of Missouri, who by their speeches at any rate give the impression that they believe there is no alternative to "peaceful co-existence" except an atomic war. There are, moreover, some impressions conveyed occasionally by the President's remarks at his press conferences which have led to a belief that he is against war no matter how much American rights may be violated.

The truth is the President is not a "peace at any price" man and has never deliberately given that impression. On the contrary, he is the kind of president who, like Woodrow Wilson, is known for his pacific desires and tendencies but, when the big overt act comes and there is no alternative but to fight it out, he courageously makes that decision.

The big wars in history have come because the enemy has misconstrued the patience of the democracies and miscalculated what they might do if their allies were attacked.

Applies Moral Force

The purpose of the debate started by Senator Knowland is to let Soviet Russia know that America isn't going to sit passively by while the Communists gobble up nation after nation in Asia or while they carry on their subversive propaganda inside peaceful nations. The idea of severing diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union is often mentioned by Mr. Knowland as one of the alternatives to war. It is a step considered as one means of impressing the Soviet that she cannot count on a "co-existence" policy that envisages a continuance of the "cold war" by the Soviets.

Something more than mere talk about peace is being sought. Senator Knowland's remarks, which have already been misinterpreted as belligerent and probably will be twisted by critics who want a "peace at any price" policy, are designed solely to apply moral force to prevent a third world war from breaking out. That's why the debate that has started is a healthy sign. It may be that Moscow will be convinced by the discussion that there is more for the Soviet government to do on the "peaceful" end of "co-existence" than has been apparent thus far from Moscow.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

What makes with the Roosevelts this election? Franklin lost in New York while Jimmie copped the nod in California. And Franklin had the advantage of the Gulf Stream.

Both lads are good politicians. Maybe Franklin didn't follow campaign precedent close enough. We know he shook hands with the voters and gave loose with the cigars. Maybe he kissed the wrong babies.

Might be a good idea if Franklin looked over Jimmie's hurricane list.

Our ears were all aglow on election night when the results were being impounded by the losers. The only time the figures had a flat look was when the experts didn't get a chance to pad 'em.

Don't imagine that Franklin is out of politics. He didn't lose the low license plate on his car.

That's the real test in New York. If you can bust into the low 30s you're set. We once had BB-11 but they took it away and painted it on a fire-plug.

Now that Averell Harrison clicked like a bridgework in the old folks home we are asking for it back. We have seen Jim Farley in a blizzard waiting for a taxicab with a low number.

We took a couple of pokes at Harriman during the campaign but he shook it off. Just got a telegram from Averell that reads, "Bugs, nothing is too good for you." And nothing is what I'll get.

The feminine or hooligan vote for Jimmie Roosevelt was terrific. And the girls were not boisterous. Possible that they were trying to make Jimmie's All-American.

The Roosevelt name will continue to shine brittle on the Pacific Coast. In the East the son is also bright. Franklin has a law office in Wall Street with a trapdoor for a welcome mat.

No matter which way things go the Roosevelts come from sturdy stock. Remember when the lion chased Teddy into the jungle camp? Teddy hollered, "Open the gates. I'm bringing him back alive."

Franklin will move his rubber stamps up two years and be ready in 1956. And out in California there is still the family name engraved in letters of gold on the public payroll.

Hidden Crisis

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

This crisis is probably the most serious to confront the Eisenhower administration since it took office. One wise official has said that the decision which may soon have to be taken—whether or not to intervene to save the Nationalist held islands off the China coast—may represent "the last chance in Asia."

The crisis began to come to a head in early September, when the Chinese Communists first heavily shelled the island of Quemoy. At this time, as first revealed by Washington Post and Times-Herald reporter Chalmers Roberts in a story which has rocked official Washington, the Joint Chiefs of Staff proposed a bold course of action.

They proposed, by a three to one majority, that Chiang Kai-shek's air forces should bomb communications lines in China, to forestall an assault on Quemoy. They further proposed that American planes also bomb inland China, if an attack on Quemoy or the other Nationalist islands nevertheless developed.

Ridgway Dissented

Admirals Radford and Carney, and Gen. Twining, reasoned that the off-shore islands could not be held without bombing the mainland. Admittedly, the islands could almost certainly not be held by Chiang's forces alone, even if the mainland were bombed, and might not be held even with the intervention of American air and naval forces. But the determination of this country to intervene if necessary, the majority reasoned, was very likely to deter the Chinese Communists from attacking at all.

Gen. Ridgway dissented from this view. He asserted that there was no such thing as an "immaculate war," and that American ground forces were inadequate for any such commitment. The issue was put before the National Security Council, at a mid-campaign meeting in Denver on September 12.

At this meeting, the President vetoed the Joint Chief's majority proposal. The veto, it can be stated on high authority, is not final—there has been no formal decision under no circumstances to intervene to save the islands. But it is probably final in practice. For the President vetoed the proposal of the Joint Chiefs, not simply because he agreed with Ridgway, but also on the much broader ground that the course proposed by the Joint Chiefs involved a clear risk of world war.

The basic intention now is, in short, to avoid becoming involved directly in a battle for the offshore islands. The obvious alternative was put up to Chiang by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on his trip to Formosa. Dulles suggested—in far more polite terms—that it might be wise for Chiang to get out of the islands before he was kicked out.

The generalisimo's reaction was angry. He said, in effect, that it would be better for his forces to die fighting for the islands rather than to give up without a fight. One can sympathize with this reaction. But it is also easy to see why Dulles hinted at a voluntary withdrawal.

Withdrawal Has Advantages

If the islands are not to be held under any circumstances, there are positive advantages to a Nationalist withdrawal under American pressure. Such a withdrawal would at least knock the props out from under the Communist and neutralist line, effective in both Europe and Asia, that America is thirsting for war.

Moreover, a firm American guarantee to Chiang to fight to hold Formosa and the Pescadores has been in the works for weeks. This guarantee, it has been suggested in the State Department, could be tied into an agreement by Chiang to withdraw.

At the same time, the generalissimo could and would save face by blaming the abandonment of the islands on the United States. Under such circumstances, voluntary withdrawal could hardly hurt morale on Formosa as much as a bloody and inevitable defeat.

This third alternative—a bloody defeat for Chiang's forces, administered by the Communists while this country held aloof—is quite obviously the worst possible outcome. Nothing could do more to convince all Asia that this country is a "paper tiger." For this reason, the possibility of persuading Chiang to undertake a voluntary withdrawal from the islands is being rather wistfully considered in official circles.

But strong measures would be needed to persuade Chiang to change his mind. And such strong measures would in turn arouse such powerful senators as Majority Leader William Knowland. So once again, as in the period before the beginning of the Korean War, American policy is in danger of falling between two stools, the one marked "Fear of Congress" and the other marked "Fear of general war."

Low Salt Diet Seldom Necessary In Healthy People

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Salt is important to health and to the sense of well being. It is the most abundant single chemical compound in the body and is found in all tissue juices as well as in the blood plasma.

But during the last two decades, many men and women have gone on a low salt diet to lose weight and to ward off high blood pressure and heart disorders. This regimen seldom is necessary and should not be followed except under the doctor's orders. Furthermore, some persons are punishing themselves by avoiding the tasty dishes they enjoyed previously.

The healthy body is well equipped to handle the salt contained in food and added in the kitchen and at the table. The secret lies with the kidneys. These organs are responsible for maintaining a constant salt level in the blood.

When too much salt is taken into the body, the kidneys open up and allow the excess to escape. The opposite occurs when a low salt diet is consumed. The filtration mechanism of the kidneys shuts up like a clam and refuses to excrete salt into the urine. By holding on to the small amount that exists, the kidneys conserve the body's supply of the mineral.

As a result, the salt user is likely to end up with just as much in his system as does the person on a low salt diet. I am referring to healthy individuals only, not those suffering from kidney trouble, dropsy, or certain glandular disorders. In such people, the kidneys may not function properly or the excess remains in the tissues and cannot be excreted in the usual way.

The victim of Addison's disease, for example, has trouble with salt. In this malady, parts of the adrenal glands are destroyed through disease, which leads to a scarcity or an absence of the hormones responsible for controlling the kidney filters. Consequently, salt escapes freely as though running through a sieve, and death ensues unless the basic cause is corrected or the salt supply is replenished immediately.

Additional salt may be required during heat waves and when working in a hot environment such as a steel mill. Here the kidneys do not have the opportunity to control the blood salt level because large amounts of the chemical are lost via the sweat glands. When this occurs, the person may encounter muscle cramps, headache, fatigue, exhaustion, and dullness of the mental processes. A somewhat similar condition exists with excessive vomiting or diarrhea.

Obesity is combatted with a low caloric diet. It is true that salt causes retention of fluid in the tissues and lessening its intake encourages the excretion of water. The scales register the loss of fluid but fat is not decreased and this substance, in the long run, is the most important factor in overweight.

No. This condition, in which there is a profound aversion to food, is most common in girls. The disorder leads to marked emaciation and other symptoms and often calls for psychiatric care.

"Glottochronology" Helps Trace History

Not all scientific discoveries are in the realm of the so-called "natural sciences" like chemistry and biology and physics. There is much of natural science in psychology, but it is mainly limited to such matters as the manner in which the eye sees or the ear hears; physiology and neurology are basic to psychology.

Yet the social sciences are adding vastly to the body of scientific lore. Consider for instance the results of a study being made in the Philippines by a team of anthropologists from the University of Chicago. They are working among the pagan peoples of Mountain Province in Luzon to try to learn why tribes separated only by mountains showed wide differences in culture.

And that was the key to some of the mystery. An American linguist named Morris Swadesh had found that the "fundamental" vocabulary of all languages changes at a constant rate. As reported by the Carnegie Corporation, which helps to finance the Philippine study, a language retains approximately 81 per cent of its basic words after 1,000 years.

"Two languages separated for 1,000 years have about 66 per cent of their basic vocabulary in common—that is, 81 per cent of 81 per cent. By finding the percentage of words which two languages have in common, a linguistic scientist can estimate whether they stem from a common source and when they branched off from it."

This is called "glottochronology." By its index the scientists figure that two main groups in Luzon shared a common language about 1400 A. D. The enthusiastic scientists are sure they have a real tool for building the history of prehistoric man as to his migrations. They are confident they will estimate closely, for example, the period in which the ancestors of Pacific islanders arrived from the Asian mainland.

As a fascinating process of inductive reasoning this matches the new "carbon 12" technique for fixing the age of organic matter, like human bones, by their stage in losing radioactivity.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

I & E Program

During World War II, I called attention on several occasions to the astonishing material issued by the Army under its Information and Education Program, which failed to stress patriotism, loyalty to country, traditional American ideals but went into the business of making Soviet Russia increasingly popular among our troops.

It is because of the curious twist of this indoctrination activity that I carefully read the contents of a pamphlet entitled "20th Century Minutemen, a Report to the President on a Reserve Forces Training Program."

This document was issued by the National Security Training Commission of which General Julius Ochs Adler is chairman. Everything in this report goes along swimmingly as long as I read about military activities but when I reached the non-military activities, I came across the old I & E Program which continues to puzzle me. According to this, the Army is to function under four precepts:

". . . (1) The dignity of the individual as a basic concept of democracy; (2) democracy's respect for the truth as contrasted with communism; (3) the sovereignty of the people, rule by the will of the majority rather than the edict of a few; and (4) spiritual values basic to a democratic philosophy."

This looks very good, but what does it mean? What precisely does the use of the word, democracy, mean in this context? Why cannot these precepts deal with the United States, which is a definable entity, instead of with democracy, which no one can define? I should like whoever wrote this report to explain what "democracy's respect for the truth" means and how that respect is to be implemented. By truth does the author mean the Natural Law as defined by Thomas Aquinas or pragmatism as defined by John Dewey?

The next paragraph in the pamphlet is still more interesting. It says:

"The Chaplain's Corps will conduct the lectures on marriage and family life, religion, and moral principles, and other instructors will give the lectures on democratic responsibility, government, and sex education. They will not be 'indoctrination.' They are to present the principles which are generally accepted by the great majority of the people, without personal embellishments."

What is meant by "democratic responsibility?" In the United States, we enjoy the benefits of government by law. The citizen is responsible for his conduct under the law. If he commits treason and is caught, he goes the way of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, or if he is not caught in time, he may go the way of Alger Hiss. Nowhere in our laws is the citizen bound by such a concept as "democratic responsibility." In the mores of our people, a man is bound by moral obligations, which apparently is for the chaplains to talk about. There used to be a term, civic duties, which dealt with the nature of citizenship. But I cannot fathom what is meant by "democratic responsibility."

So I go to the next paragraph which expands the subject:

"For example, the lecture on democratic responsibility will emphasize the role each individual plays in the preservation of peace and the ideals of the United States . . ."

But the individual plays no part in the preservation of peace. He knows nothing about it. John Foster Dulles and his enormous staff go to conferences and make various deals but the citizen only knows about them when the chain of events is moving in the direction of war or peace. For instance, what would the individual in the Army Reserve have had to say about whether the United States was to go into the Korean War or to stay out of it? Nobody asked him. As a matter of fact, no one even asked the Congress.

Those who complain about conformity ought to look at page 127 of this program. There is stated:

"Instructors in nonmilitary subjects should strive to present the broadest and most generally accepted principles of our society . . ."

What are the "most generally accepted principles of our society" that can be taught in a few months to reservists? And why should they be lectured about any "generally accepted principles of our society?" For instance, Protestant Christianity is the majority religion of this country. Are its principles the most generally accepted in our society? If so, are they to be taught by civilian instructors to Catholic, Jewish, Moslem and Buddhist Americans? There is something queerly conformist in all this.

Anticipated Senate Vote On Censure Of Sen. McCarthy Now Crystallizing

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here are the hard-core Republican senators who Joe McCarthy expects will vote for him: Bricker, Ohio; Bridges, N. H.; Butler, Md.; Dirksen, Ill.; Goldwater, Ariz.; Jenner, Ind.; Malone, Nev.; Mundt, S. D., and Welker, Idaho.

Here are other Republicans who may either go along with Joe or favor a compromise: Capehart, Ind.; Hickenlooper, Iowa; Knowland, Calif.; Langer, N. D.; Martin, Pa.; Schoeppel, Kans., and Wiley, Wisc. Others who are wavering include Barrett, Wyo.; Beall, Md., and Dworshak, Idaho.

If McCarthy gets two Democrats, as he claims privately, they'll probably be Eastland of Mississippi and Daniel of Texas. Another Democrat, Lennon of North Carolina, made some pro-McCarthy cracks when he arrived in Washington, but got burned by them; while Holland of Florida is another who might possibly stray from the Democratic fold.

Army Favors EBASCO

Congressman Chet Holifield of California has run across some interesting connections between the Army, the public utility lobby and the Atomic Energy Commission. His discoveries make it appear that the Army Engineers are hand in glove with Electric Bond and Share, the big holding company which is behind the Dixon-Yates contract.

Holified also pointed up the fact that the Atomic Energy Commission is now dominated by military men, though Congress carefully passed a law providing for civilian control of the atom.

What Holifield discovered was a letter from Maj. Gen. B. L. Robinson of the Army Engineers to another general, Kenneth Nichols, manager of the Atomic Energy Commission. It read: "Dear Ken—For your information, herewith is copy of a letter from Johnny Hardin verifying his position with relation to the location of the Dixon-Yates steam plant." The letter was signed, "Robby."

General Robinson enclosed another letter from Gen. John Hardin, also of the Army Engineers, who had written "Robby" (Robinson) about meeting with "representatives of EBASCO" (Electric Bond and Share) on a proposed site for the plant near West Memphis, Tenn.

Then General Hardin added some interesting intelligence in a postscript: "They (EBASCO representatives)," he said, "seemed pleased with the conference. We aimed to be helpful, rather than obstructive."

While Republican committee members fidgeted, Congressman Holifield pressed General Nicholas for an explanation of that unusual language. He maintained that the Army Engineers should have been neutral, rather than either "helpful" or "obstructive."

"Obstructive" General

Holifield was not satisfied.

"When I read this letter," he said, "I wondered about the postscript, because it so happens that I was chairman of the Military Housing Subcommittee in Alaska when General Hardin was in the Pentagon, and the particulars I received from General Hardin and the difficulty I had then indicated to me that he must have looked upon my inquiry with a little bit different opinion than he did yours.

"I attach special significance to this," continued Holifield, "and think that in the future, if I have to deal with Johnny, I will come to Ken and ask Ken to give me a letter."

The humor was lost completely on Gen. "Ken" Nichols.

"I would be pleased to do that, sir," he replied stiffly.

"As I look at this (the Dixon-Yates contract)," continued Holifield, "I could almost believe that it is a military operation. We have General Johnny and General Robby and Colonel Mitcham and General Kenneth. And we have the commander-in-chief, General Eisenhower, and Admiral Strauss (chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission).

"So it looks like a military operation, and I wonder if the cooperation had anything to do with the conception of the line of command."

By this time, even Republican committee colleagues were laughing. But General Nichols just didn't think there was anything funny about it at all.

NOTE—The giant Electric Bond and Share Corporation, which the Army Engineers seems to favor, was investigated by Hugo Black before he left the Senate for the Supreme Court and was one reason for passage of the Holding Corporation Act to disband the big holding companies and their grip on local utilities. The Dixon-Yates investigation has shown that Electric Bond and Share still dominates local utilities in the South, despite the Holding Corporation Act.

Outside Interference

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse is sorry he let himself be talked into campaigning against fiery Democrat Wayne Hays, congressman from Ohio's 14th District.

Safely re-elected, Hays phoned Morse last week and sarcastically told him: "I'm sorry I wasn't around to return the greeting when you came to say hello last month, but I was busy campaigning."

Morse was duly embarrassed and mumbled something about "nothing personal."

"I thought you'd like to know," Hays continues, "that this was the first election in which I carried the county where you spoke. Before, it had always gone Republican.

"You're welcome any time you want to visit," Hays concluded cheerily.

NOTE — Ironically, Undersecretary Morse didn't want to get mixed up in the Ohio campaign and did so only after much urging from GOP Chairman Len Hall.

Debate Started By Knowland Is Warning To Russia

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Everybody in the government here, including the Congress, seems to be in favor of "co-existence" with Soviet Russia but nobody is quite sure it's going to be "peaceful."

That's the crux of the debate precipitated Tuesday by Senator Knowland, Republican of California, majority leader, who wants to discuss frankly and in the open just what the present Communist activities in the world really mean.

This doesn't mean that Mr. Konwland is necessarily at variance with the White House. Nor is there any real evidence that either the President or the secretary of state are averse to having the Senat debate the issues. For it is apparent that, as Secretary Dulles himself told a press conference after the Knowland speech, there is some difference of opinion between Moscow and Washington as to just what "peaceful co-existence" means.

Fear Distortion Of Meaning

So far as this government and perhaps also most all of the Western countries known as a part of the free world are concerned, "peaceful co-existence" means honorable intercourse, a willingness to keep out of each other's affairs, and particularly it means the absence of any aggression.

But the suspicion here, which is shared by the executive branch of the government, is that, just as the Soviet Union claims it is a "democracy," so will it also distort the meaning of "peaceful co-existence."

To the United States, "peaceful co-existence" does not mean the repeated shooting down of planes on peaceful errands or a threat to invade weaker countries such as is now being witnessed in the Far East and Southeast Asia.

Since it is apparent that Moscow isn't sincere and refuses to be peaceful, the debate on what "co-existence" means has been opened up in timely fashion by Senator Knowland. There are indications that Senator Lyndon Johnson, who speaks as Democratic party leader, and other Democrats in Congress are aware of the importance of full discussion, especially as it relates to the meaning of "peaceful co-existence." It is of the utmost importance, too, that Soviet Russia should not misconstrue the meaning of the last election. In Britain, Clement Attlee of the Labor party was quoted not long ago as saying that a Democratic victory in the congressional elections would mean a change in America's stand against admission of Red China into the United Nations.

There are some Democrats, like Senator Hennings of Missouri, who by their speeches at any rate give the impression that they believe there is no alternative to "peaceful co-existence" except an atomic war. There are, moreover, some impressions conveyed occasionally by the President's remarks at his press conferences which have led to a belief that he is against war no matter how much American rights may be violated.

The truth is the President is not a "peace at any price" man and has never deliberately given that impression. On the contrary, he is the kind of president who, like Woodrow Wilson, is known for his pacific desires and tendencies but, when the big overt act comes and there is no alternative but to fight it out, he courageously makes that decision.

The big wars in history have come because the enemy has misconstrued the patience of the democracies and miscalculated what they might do if their allies were attacked.

Applies Moral Force

The purpose of the debate started by Senator Knowland is to let Soviet Russia know that America isn't going to sit passively by while the Communists gobble up nation after nation in Asia or while they carry on their subversive propaganda inside peaceful nations. The idea of severing diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union is often mentioned by Mr. Knowland as one of the alternatives to war. It is a step considered as one means of impressing the Soviet that she cannot count on a "co-existence" policy that envisages a continuance of the "cold war" by the Soviets.

Something more than mere talk about peace is being sought. Senator Knowland's remarks, which have already been misinterpreted as belligerent and probably will be twisted by critics who want a "peace at any price" policy, are designed solely to apply moral force to prevent a third world war from breaking out. That's why the debate that has started is a healthy sign. It may be that Moscow will be convinced by the discussion that there is more for the Soviet government to do on the "peaceful" end of "co-existence" than has been apparent thus far from Moscow.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

What makes with the Roosevelts this election? Franklin lost in New York while Jimmie copped the nod in California. And Franklin had the advantage of the Gulf Stream.

Both lads are good politicians. Maybe Franklin didn't follow campaign precedent close enough. We know he shook hands with the voters and gave loose with the cigars. Maybe he kissed the wrong babies.

Might be a good idea if Franklin looked over Jimmie's hurricane list.

Our ears were all aglow on election night when the results were being impounded by the losers. The only time the figures had a flat look was when the experts didn't get a chance to pad 'em.

Don't imagine that Franklin is out of politics. He didn't lose the low license plate on his car.

That's the real test in New York. If you can bust into the low 30s you're set. We once had BB-11 but they took it away and painted it on a fire-plug.

Now that Averell Harrison clicked like a bridgework in the old folks home we are asking for it back. We have seen Jim Farley in a blizzard waiting for a taxicab with a low number.

We took a couple of pokes at Harriman during the campaign but he shook it off. Just got a telegram from Averell that reads, "Bugs, nothing is too good for you." And nothing is what I'll get.

The feminine or hooligan vote for Jimmie Roosevelt was terrific. And the girls were not boisterous. Possible that they were trying to make Jimmie's All-American.

The Roosevelt name will continue to shine brittle on the Pacific Coast. In the East the son is also bright. Franklin has a law office in Wall Street with a trapdoor for a welcome mat.

No matter which way things go the Roosevelts come from sturdy stock. Remember when the lion chased Teddy into the jungle camp? Teddy hollered, "Open the gates. I'm bringing him back alive."

Franklin will move his rubber stamps up two years and be ready in 1956. And out in California there is still the family name engraved in letters of gold on the public payroll.

Hidden Crisis

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

This crisis is probably the most serious to confront the Eisenhower administration since it took office. One wise official has said that the decision which may soon have to be taken—whether or not to intervene to save the Nationalist held islands off the China coast—may represent "the last chance in Asia."

The crisis began to come to a head in early September, when the Chinese Communists first heavily shelled the island of Quemoy. At this time, as first revealed by Washington Post and Times-Herald reporter Chalmers Roberts in a story which has rocked official Washington, the Joint Chiefs of Staff proposed a bold course of action.

They proposed, by a three to one majority, that Chiang Kai-shek's air forces should bomb communications lines in China, to forestall an assault on Quemoy. They further proposed that American planes also bomb inland China, if an attack on Quemoy or the other Nationalist islands nevertheless developed.

Ridgway Dissented

Admirals Radford and Carney, and Gen. Twining, reasoned that the off-shore islands could not be held without bombing the mainland. Admittedly, the islands could almost certainly not be held by Chiang's forces alone, even if the mainland were bombed, and might not be held even with the intervention of American air and naval forces. But the determination of this country to intervene if necessary, the majority reasoned, was very likely to deter the Chinese Communists from attacking at all.

Gen. Ridgway dissented from this view. He asserted that there was no such thing as an "immaculate war," and that American ground forces were inadequate for any such commitment. The issue was put before the National Security Council, at a mid-campaign meeting in Denver on September 12.

At this meeting, the President vetoed the Joint Chief's majority proposal. The veto, it can be stated on high authority, is not final—there has been no formal decision under no circumstances to intervene to save the islands. But it is probably final in practice. For the President vetoed the proposal of the Joint Chiefs, not simply because he agreed with Ridgway, but also on the much broader ground that the course proposed by the Joint Chiefs involved a clear risk of world war.

The basic intention now is, in short, to avoid becoming involved directly in a battle for the offshore islands. The obvious alternative was put up to Chiang by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on his trip to Formosa. Dulles suggested—in far more polite terms—that it might be wise for Chiang to get out of the islands before he was kicked out.

The generalisimo's reaction was angry. He said, in effect, that it would be better for his forces to die fighting for the islands rather than to give up without a fight. One can sympathize with this reaction. But it is also easy to see why Dulles hinted at a voluntary withdrawal.

Withdrawal Has Advantages

If the islands are not to be held under any circumstances, there are positive advantages to a Nationalist withdrawal under American pressure. Such a withdrawal would at least knock the props out from under the Communist and neutralist line, effective in both Europe and Asia, that America is thirsting for war.

Moreover, a firm American guarantee to Chiang to fight to hold Formosa and the Pescadores has been in the works for weeks. This guarantee, it has been suggested in the State Department, could be tied into an agreement by Chiang to withdraw.

At the same time, the generalissimo could and would save face by blaming the abandonment of the islands on the United States. Under such circumstances, voluntary withdrawal could hardly hurt morale on Formosa as much as a bloody and inevitable defeat.

This third alternative—a bloody defeat for Chiang's forces, administered by the Communists while this country held aloof—is quite obviously the worst possible outcome. Nothing could do more to convince all Asia that this country is a "paper tiger." For this reason, the possibility of persuading Chiang to undertake a voluntary withdrawal from the islands is being rather wistfully considered in official circles.

But strong measures would be needed to persuade Chiang to change his mind. And such strong measures would in turn arouse such powerful senators as Majority Leader William Knowland. So once again, as in the period before the beginning of the Korean War, American policy is in danger of falling between two stools, the one marked "Fear of Congress" and the other marked "Fear of general war."

Low Salt Diet Seldom Necessary In Healthy People

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Salt is important to health and to the sense of well being. It is the most abundant single chemical compound in the body and is found in all tissue juices as well as in the blood plasma.

But during the last two decades, many men and women have gone on a low salt diet to lose weight and to ward off high blood pressure and heart disorders. This regimen seldom is necessary and should not be followed except under the doctor's orders. Furthermore, some persons are punishing themselves by avoiding the tasty dishes they enjoyed previously.

The healthy body is well equipped to handle the salt contained in food and added in the kitchen and at the table. The secret lies with the kidneys. These organs are responsible for maintaining a constant salt level in the blood.

When too much salt is taken into the body, the kidneys open up and allow the excess to escape. The opposite occurs when a low salt diet is consumed. The filtration mechanism of the kidneys shuts up like a clam and refuses to excrete salt into the urine. By holding on to the small amount that exists, the kidneys conserve the body's supply of the mineral.

As a result, the salt user is likely to end up with just as much in his system as does the person on a low salt diet. I am referring to healthy individuals only, not those suffering from kidney trouble, dropsy, or certain glandular disorders. In such people, the kidneys may not function properly or the excess remains in the tissues and cannot be excreted in the usual way.

The victim of Addison's disease, for example, has trouble with salt. In this malady, parts of the adrenal glands are destroyed through disease, which leads to a scarcity or an absence of the hormones responsible for controlling the kidney filters. Consequently, salt escapes freely as though running through a sieve, and death ensues unless the basic cause is corrected or the salt supply is replenished immediately.

Additional salt may be required during heat waves and when working in a hot environment such as a steel mill. Here the kidneys do not have the opportunity to control the blood salt level because large amounts of the chemical are lost via the sweat glands. When this occurs, the person may encounter muscle cramps, headache, fatigue, exhaustion, and dullness of the mental processes. A somewhat similar condition exists with excessive vomiting or diarrhea.

Obesity is combatted with a low caloric diet. It is true that salt causes retention of fluid in the tissues and lessening its intake encourages the excretion of water. The scales register the loss of fluid but fat is not decreased and this substance, in the long run, is the most important factor in overweight.

Tri-Towns UO Needs Shoes For Children

Progress Reported In Relief Program

WESTERNPORT — One of the big problems of the United Organizations in getting sufficient shoes to keep underprivileged children in school, Wayne Ritchie, chairman, announced at the meeting of the UO at Westernport Library Monday evening. Favorable responses had been received from 12 organizations, he said, that will assist in the task of supplying shoes.

Those that have already answered the appeal for shoes include Piedmont Chapter 925, Women of the Moose; Philos Lodge 91, IOOF; Westernport and Luke Lions Club; Piedmont Woman's Club; Young Ladies Bible Class of Trinity Methodist Church; Womans Work Organization of the Church of the Brethren; Luke Local 676, United Paper Workers of America, CIO; Westernport and Luke Civic Club; American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Victory Post No. 155; Social Welfare Company and Beta Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Also Dr. Paul R. Wilson.

The recent house to house pickup conducted by the Boy and Girl Scouts for United Organizations was the most successful ever held Ritchie stated. More non-perishable food stuff is on hand than in any store in the Tri-Towns.

More clothing is on hand than before the flood, and is stored in the warehouse in the Walker Building, Piedmont. Ritchie said it is hard to conceive, after the great amount of clothing distributed to the flood suffers, but more clothing came in then went out.

Over $900 was spent for food for Christmas by the United Organizations and other groups cooperating with the UO.

In each Christmas basket this year, Ritchie said, he would like also to have a toy for each child. Any organization or group sending out a Christmas basket should contact the UO, he suggested, to avoid duplications. The United Organizations has a master list of those needing assistance but does not want some families receiving two baskets and others needing aid not receiving any.

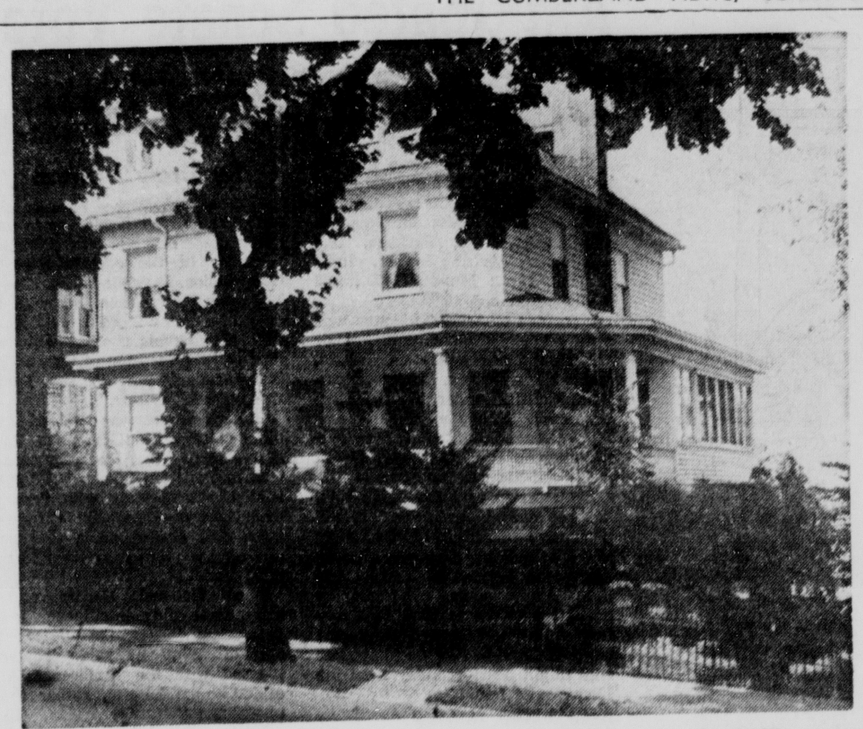

At the request of Chairman Ritchie he was authorized to destroy receipts for money spent in the United Organizations work. He said they were piling up and it is becoming a problem to find a place to keep them.

He invited each of the group to take some one else to the warehouse where the foodstuff and clothing are stored. It will amaze most people to see the great quantity now on hand, he suggested.

Frostburg State College President Gets New Home

FROSTBURG — Employes of Frostburg State Teachers College have been engaged for the past few days renovating the dwelling at 79 West Main Street, Frostburg, which was recently purchased by the state of Maryland as a residence for R. Bowen Hardesty, newly appointed president of Frostburg State Teachers College, who will assume his new duties December 13.

Mr. Hardesty, a former resident of Calvert County and superintendent of schools in Garrett County for the past six years, will occupy the residence with his wife and young son, R. Bowen Hardesty Jr., and infant daughter.

The residence, one of the most attractive in the community, was erected in 1911 for the late Mrs. Sarah Frost, widow of Thomas W. Frost, who was a direct descendant of Meschach and Catherine Frost, founders of Frostburg.

Following the death of Mrs. Frost, the property was sold to and occupied by the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan until they moved to Baltimore.

The next owners of the property were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kruson, who recently built a new residence on the east slope of Big Savage Mountain along Route 40.

An interesting feature of the residence is that it was designed by Wright Butler of Cumberland, an outstanding architect of Allegany County during his years of activity in that profession.

Many Parents Visit Moorefield School For Education Week

MOOREFIELD — Parents have a standing invitation to visit Moorefield Graded School at any time. But November 7-13 being American Education Week a special invitation was sent to all parents to visit their school.

No special program was prepared. The teachers of the Moorefield Graded School believe the parents did not expect a show or anything else except good teaching, Raymond Sindy, principal, noted. "This we strive for everyday including visitors' day. We do not object to plays or other forms of entertainment at times, but we do not think that time is visitor's day," he said.

The teachers set Wednesday as the special day for the parents to visit. Punch and cookies were served the parents that day. Those parents helping serve were: Mrs. Vernon Webster, Mrs. Vernon Taylor, Mrs. E. B. Simmons, Mrs. John Harmen, Mrs. Reuben Orebaugh, Mrs. William Vance, Mrs. Ralph Bean, Mrs. J. B. KEYSER — The Sample Fair to be presented to the citizens of Keyser and Mineral County by Keyser Kiwanis Club, in the Keyser Fire Hall auditorium December 17 and 18, is a project that has been winning favor throughout the country because of its novel presentation. Petersburg Teacher Writes Article Of National Note

PETERSBURG — "Evaluating The National Honor Society" was the topic written by Mrs. Betty Babb Thompson, a member of the Petersburg High School faculty, for the November issue of the Bulletin of Secondary School Principals.

This article written by the faculty advisor of the Petersburg chapter of the National Honor Society represents the first time for many years that a member of the Grant County teaching staff has had an article of this type appear in such a widely read professional magazine, reported A. Neil Frye, county superintendent. "Naturally, we are proud of this accomplishment," he said.

In evaluating the work of the Society, Mrs. Thompson tells in the article that 130 schools of West Virginia were polled on six questions concerning the worth and contributions made by the Society members to the campus life of their schools.

The author of this evaluation is one of two sisters on the staff of Petersburg High School, and she has served the county as teacher since the Fall of 1947. Prior to that year, she and her sister Barbara, taught in the schools of Mineral County. The latter joined her sister on the Petersburg faculty in 1950. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Babb of Maysville. For many years their father served the county as a member of the county board of education.

Both sisters are former members of the National Honor Society during their high school years in Petersburg, and have been active in following the work of the Society since that time.

Tri-Towns UO Needs Shoes For Children

Progress Reported In Relief Program

WESTERNPORT — One of the big problems of the United Organizations in getting sufficient shoes to keep underprivileged children in school, Wayne Ritchie, chairman, announced at the meeting of the UO at Westernport Library Monday evening. Favorable responses had been received from 12 organizations, he said, that will assist in the task of supplying shoes.

Those that have already answered the appeal for shoes include Piedmont Chapter 925, Women of the Moose; Philos Lodge 91, IOOF; Westernport and Luke Lions Club; Piedmont Woman's Club; Young Ladies Bible Class of Trinity Methodist Church; Womans Work Organization of the Church of the Brethren; Luke Local 676, United Paper Workers of America, CIO; Westernport and Luke Civic Club; American Legion Auxiliary Unit of Victory Post No. 155; Social Welfare Company and Beta Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Also Dr. Paul R. Wilson.

The recent house to house pick-up conducted by the Boy and Girl Scouts for United Organizations was the most successful ever held Ritchie stated. More non-perishable food stuff is on hand than in any store in the Tri-Towns.

More clothing is on hand than before the flood, and is stored in the warehouse in the Walker Building, Piedmont. Ritchie said it is hard to conceive, after the great amount of clothing distributed to the flood suffers, but more clothing came in then went out.

Over $900 was spent for food for Christmas by the United Organizations and other groups cooperating with the UO.

In each Christmas basket this year, Ritchie said, he would like also to have a toy for each child. Any organization or group sending out a Christmas basket should contact the UO, he suggested, to avoid duplications. The United Organizations has a master list of those needing assistance but does not want some families receiving two baskets and others needing aid not receiving any.

At the request of Chairman Ritchie he was authorized to destroy receipts for money spent in the United Organizations work. He said they were piling up and it is becoming a problem to find a place to keep them.

He invited each of the group to take some one else to the warehouse where the foodstuff and clothing are stored. It will amaze most people to see the great quantity now on hand, he suggested.

PRESIDENT'S HOUSE — The State of Maryland has purchased and is renovating this dwelling property at 79 West Main Street, Frostburg, as the new home of R. Bowen Hardesty, the newly appointed president of Frostburg State Teachers College. Mr. Hardesty and his family will occupy their new home early in December.

Frostburg State College President Gets New Home

FROSTBURG — Employes of Frostburg State Teachers College have been engaged for the past few days renovating the dwelling at 79 West Main Street, Frostburg, which was recently purchased by the state of Maryland as a residence for R. Bowen Hardesty, newly appointed president of Frostburg State Teachers College, who will assume his new duties December 13.

Mr. Hardesty, a former resident of Calvert County and superintendent of schools in Garrett County for the past six years, will occupy the residence with his wife and young son, R. Bowen Hardesty Jr., and infant daughter.

The residence, one of the most attractive in the community, was erected in 1911 for the late Mrs. Sarah Frost, widow of Thomas W. Frost, who was a direct descendant of Meschach and Catherine Frost, founders of Frostburg.

Following the death of Mrs. Frost, the property was sold to and occupied by the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan until they moved to Baltimore.

The next owners of the property were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kruson, who recently built a new residence on the east slope of Big Savage Mountain along Route 40.

An interesting feature of the residence is that it was designed by Wright Butler of Cumberland, an outstanding architect of Allegany County during his years of activity in that profession.

Wellersburg School Building Assured By Next September

Bids Amounting To $77,696.41 Are Accepted

MEYERSDALE — Contractor's bids for enlarging the Wellersburg (Pa.) Elementary School have been signed in Harrisburg, according to Herbert Miller, architect, at a meeting of the board of directors of the Meyersdale Joint High School District.

Miller said the Pennsylvania Public School Building Authority had authorized an extra $10,000 for the construction after low bids received totaled $14,000 more than the $61,000 allocated for the addition.

Completion date for the two-room addition is next August 24, Miller explained, stating that the general contractor, Wemak and Company of Scottdale, may inform school directors the building must be vacated. School officials have promised to vacate the structure within two weeks of notification. The contractor is permitted to start actual construction whenever he is ready.

Year Of Planning

Final approval climaxed a year of planning for the project which will eventually eliminate a number of one-room schools in the southeastern part of Somerset County.

When the bids were opened and found to be in excess of the funds allocated, school officials were faced with three alternatives: they could abandon the project, call for new bids or the Meyersdale School District could make up the difference.

Directors rejected the first alternative and the second was discarded in view of a time element, since they would lose the appropriation if it was not allocated by December 1, which did not allow enough time for re-bidding.

By taking the third plan, directors were faced with the task of raising $14,000 within the joint school district without aid of state funds, with which they are reimbursed on the project to the extent of above 75 per cent.

Get Extra Funds

They were helped in this problem by Capt. R. C. Barpman, executive director of the State Public School Building Authority. He told directors of the Meyersdale district it was possible to acquire an extra $10,000 in state funds with approval of the department of public instruction.

Working on this possibility, directors and administrators returned to Meyersdale with a large batch of new resolutions to be signed by all member boards in the district.

The resolutions included a contract to lease, copies of contract to lease resolutions, resolutions agreeing to allocation changes, copies of temporary lease and copies of revised estimated cost of project.

These signed papers were taken to Harrisburg along with a check for $4,304.25 which covered the difference in actual cost and the authority's appropriation including the extra $10,000.

Accepted bids for construction at Wellersburg are as follows: general construction, Wemak Company, Scottdale, Pa., $53,800; heating and ventilating, Winber Plumbing Supply Company, $11,600; plumbing construction, Walter N. Yoder and Sons, Cumberland, $9,825, and electrical construction, Roger E. Bolden, Meyersdale, $2,471.41.

Woodling And Byrd To Figure In The Biggest Deal In Years

Baltimore Also Gets Triandos And Smith; At Least 12 Involved

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP) — The New York Yankees and the Baltimore Orioles have completed one of the biggest baseball deals in years with pitchers Bob Turley and Don Larsen going to the Yankees and veteran outfielder Gene Woodling and pitcher Harry Byrd to the Orioles, it was learned today from an authoritative baseball source.

The trade, which also involves a number of other players, is scheduled to be announced tomorrow.

In addition to Woodling and Byrd, the Yankees will send two young catchers, believed to be Gus Triandos and Hal Smith, and three or four other players to the Orioles. At least two and possibly three others will come to the Yankees along with the Baltimore's two outstanding pitchers.

"Part of it is sheer speculation," said Oriole President Clarence Miles in Baltimore. He added there would be no announcement tonight and that when it did come it would be from General Manager Paul Richards. Richards was not immediately available for comment. Neither were any of the Yankee officials in New York.

In Turley and Larsen the Yanks obtain two of the outstanding young pitchers in the American League, although neither had outstanding won and lost records with Baltimore last season.

Led Loop In Strikeouts

Turley, 24-year old fire-ball right hander, led the league in strikeouts with 184 and had an earned-run average of 3.46 while winning 14 and losing 15.

Larsen 26 years old and also a right hander, dropped 21 games while winning only three, one a shutout against the Yankees. He was highly regarded throughout the circuit. He had an earned run average of 4.37.

Woodling, 32, veteran of nine years in the majors—the last six with the Yankees—batted .250 last year after being out of action sometime with injuries. It was his lowest average since coming up to the majors with Cleveland in 1943.

Byrd, obtained by the Yankees last winter from the Philadelphia Athletics, never quite fulfilled the hopes of the New York management. He had a 9-7 record. Most of his victories were against second division clubs. The big right hander will be 30 years old next February.

Smith Starred In AA

Triandos and Smith, two of the five catchers on the Yankee roster, played in Triple AA American Association last year. Triandos, 24, hit .296 with Kansas City, connecting with 18 home runs and driving in 65 runs. Smith, also 24, batted .350 for Columbus but hit only seven homers and drove in 50 runs.

Smith was optioned to Columbus in the deal that brought Enos Slaughter from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Yankees.

In number of players involved the Yankee-Orioles deal ranks with the one between New York and the Athletics last winter. Eleven players were involved in that trade.

The Yankees, admittedly in need of pitching strength after losing the league title and chance for their sixth straight world championship, apparently were looking for youngsters in the trade.

Vets' Status In Doubt

The status of two of their veteran hurlers, Allie Reynolds and Johnny Sain, is doubtful. Reynolds recently injured his hand and even before that expressed doubt that he would return next year. Sain also may not be back. He said he was going to retire after the 1953 season but came back to win six games and save a number of others in relief.

Reynolds, used both as a starter and in relief, had a 13-4 record.

The deal is the first made by Paul Richards, since taking over as both general and field manager of the Orioles, who finished seventh last season under Jimmy Dykes.

Lou Boudreau Signs Contract To Manage A's

Former Boston, Tribe Pilot Given Two-Year Pact At Kansas City

By SKIPPER PATRICK

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17 (AP)—Lou Boudreau today was signed to a two-year contract as manager of the Kansas City Athletics marking his third stint as an American League skipper.

Lou Boudreau

Boudreau recently was fired as manager of the Boston Red Sox, a post he had held since 1952. He was playing manager of the Cleveland Indians from 1942 through 1950.

Arnold Johnson, Chicago businessman who acquired the Philadelphia franchise last week, did not disclose Boudreau's salary but said "Lou has always been a top salaried manager and you can be sure he's happy with this one."

Boudreau's salary at Boston last year was $45,000 with another season to go. It's understood he'll collect approximately the same figure here.

The signing of Boudreau followed by two days the naming of Parke Carroll, general manager of the old Kansas City Blues, as vice president and business manager of the new A's.

Joost Given Release

Johnson also announced that Eddie Joost, manager of the Philadelphia A's last year, had been given his unconditional release in order to negotiate a deal for himself.

Boudreau was hopeful the change of scenery would put new life in the A's.

"The situation here doesn't compare with that at Milwaukee when the old Boston Braves jumped from sixth to second place in one season," Boudreau commented. "The Braves had a stronger nucleus for a contender."

To Fill One More Post

"We are going to need some ball players, but every man that reports to spring training is going to get a chance," Boudreau said.

The A's have at least one more top front office post to fill—that of personnel director who will be head man in the signing of players and player deals.

Erdelatz Declares He's Happy At Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 20 (AP)—Eddie Erdelatz said today he is "happy right where he is" as football coach of Navy and doesn't "anticipate any change to anywhere."

"I haven't talked to anybody about leaving Navy," he said, "and besides at this time I'm too interested in the immediate job of beating Army on Nov. 27.

The big, smiling coach of Navy has been busy denying reports of changing jobs since a New York newspaper yesterday printed a report he was going to Pittsburgh.

Erdelatz said the report was "absolutely untrue" and that he had not talked to anybody from Pitt, or for that matter from anywhere else.

Carter Regains Lightweight Title

Wins Championship Third Time; Stops DeMarco In 15th

By RUSS NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Jimmy Carter, fighting a planned, methodical battle, regained the world's lightweight tile tonight, with a technical knockout over Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn in the last round of a 15-round fight at the Cow Palace.

Carter, who went in as a 3-1 favorite, to get back the crown he lost to DeMarco last March, battered his rival into submission in the first 14 seconds of the last round.

Referee Stops Bout

The champion was helpless from a barrage of punches to the body and face shortly after the 15th opened. He fell into the ropes and Referee Ray Flores pulled him out and turned him around. DeMarco was in no condition to continue and Carter's hand was raised in victory.

Carter, punching methodically to the face and body overcame an early lead piled up by DeMarco. The champ was in front for the first four rounds.

Carter pounded away steadily to take the fifth and sixth. He stung DeMarco with rights to the jaw. DeMarco's left eye, cut on the side in the second round, made a fine target for Carter and he banged the optic steadily. It was badly swollen by the end of the fifth.

Paddy Floored In 9th

The seventh and eighth appeared fairly even but Carter shot over a left hook to the jaw in the ninth that put DeMarco down. He was up at the count of four.

Carter blasted him around for the rest of the round, scoring repeatedly with rights to the jaw. The champion weathered the storm but finished in bad shape.

DeMarco made a comeback in the 10th and 11th rounds. He inflicted a cut over Carter's left eye in the 10th and was the aggressor in the 11th, landing the most blows.

Carter took command again in the 12th, chasing DeMarco around the ring and landing stiff lefts and rights to the jaw while a crowd of more than 6,000 roared.

DeMarco was distressed from hard body jolts and lefts and rights to the jaw in the 13th. He finished the round in a groggy condition.

DeMarco's left eye was swollen closed as he came out for the final round. Carter poured punches on him. DeMarco was spun around into a corner of the ring.

DeMarco was reeling and helpless. Carter sailed in with a vicious two-handed attack. Referee Flores stepped in and halted the contest.

Wins Title 3rd Time

It was the third time Carter has won the lightweight title. He became champion in 1951 by knocking out Ike Williams in the 14th round. In 1952, he lost the title to Lauro Salas of Mexico by a decision.

Betting Exceeds Two Million Mark, Up In 12 States

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Parimutuel betting at thoroughbred horse race tracks exceeded two billion dollars this year for the second time in history.

Total wagering and attendance were off slightly from record 1953 highs but an all-time record amount of revenue will be collected by the states, 2.69 per cent above last year.

An incomplete and unofficial Associated Press survey of flat racing in the 24 racing states disclosed today that betting dropped 2.1 per cent from the 1953 season, which was the biggest year in the history of the sport. On the other hand, attendance declined by only .37 per cent as compared with 1953.

In the betting it was a tossup, 12 states were down and 12 up. A dozen states reported attendance increases, 11 were down.

Erdelatz Declares He's Happy At Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 20 (AP)—Eddie Erdelatz said today he is "happy right where he is" as football coach of Navy and doesn't "anticipate any change to anywhere."

"I haven't talked to anybody about leaving Navy," he said, "and besides at this time I'm too interested in the immediate job of beating Army on Nov. 27.

The big, smiling coach of Navy has been busy denying reports of changing jobs since a New York newspaper yesterday printed a report he was going to Pittsburgh.

Erdelatz said the report was "absolutely untrue" and that he had not talked to anybody from Pitt, or for that matter from anywhere else.

Carter Regains Lightweight Title

Wins Championship Third Time; Stops DeMarco In 15th

By RUSS NEWLAND

Carter, who went in as a 3-1 favorite, to get back the crown he lost to DeMarco last March, battered his rival into submission in the first 14 seconds of the last round.

Referee Stops Bout

The champion was helpless from a barrage of punches to the body and face shortly after the 15th opened. He fell into the ropes and Referee Ray Flores pulled him out and turned him around. DeMarco was in no condition to continue and Carter's hand was raised in victory.

Carter, punching methodically to the face and body overcame an early lead piled up by DeMarco. The champ was in front for the first four rounds.

Carter pounded away steadily to take the fifth and sixth. He stung DeMarco with rights to the jaw. DeMarco's left eye, cut on the side in the second round, made a fine target for Carter and he banged the optic steadily. It was badly swollen by the end of the fifth.

Paddy Floored In 9th

The seventh and eighth appeared fairly even but Carter shot over a left hook to the jaw in the ninth that put DeMarco down. He was up at the count of four.

Carter blasted him around for the rest of the round, scoring repeatedly with rights to the jaw. The champion weathered the storm but finished in bad shape.

DeMarco made a comeback in the 10th and 11th rounds. He inflicted a cut over Carter's left eye in the 10th and was the aggressor in the 11th, landing the most blows.

Carter took command again in the 12th, chasing DeMarco around the ring and landing stiff lefts and rights to the jaw while a crowd of more than 6,000 roared.

DeMarco was distressed from hard body jolts and lefts and rights to the jaw in the 13th. He finished the round in a groggy condition.

DeMarco's left eye was swollen closed as he came out for the final round. Carter poured punches on him. DeMarco was spun around into a corner of the ring.

Wins Title 3rd Time

It was the third time Carter has won the lightweight title. He became champion in 1951 by knocking out Ike Williams in the 14th round. In 1952, he lost the title to Lauro Salas of Mexico by a decision.

Carter won it back from the Mexican a few months later of the same year.

Betting Exceeds Two Million Mark, Up In 12 States

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Parl-mutuel betting at thoroughbred horse race tracks exceeded two billion dollars this year for the second time in history.

Total wagering and attendance were off slightly from record 1953 highs but an all-time record amount of revenue will be collected by the states, 2.69 per cent above last year.

An incomplete and unofficial Associated Press survey of flat racing in the 24 racing states disclosed today that betting dropped 2.1 per cent from the 1953 season, which was the biggest year in the history of the sport. On the other hand, attendance declined by only .37 per cent as compared with 1953.

In the betting it was a tossup, 12 states were down and 12 up. A dozen states reported attendance increases, 11 were down.

Figures by states for 1954 include (days, total bet, attendance and state revenue):

Sport Candids

BY FRANK KUCHIRCHUK

EVER occur to you how many football games are lost by one point, that point after touchdown?

This year, in particular, quite a few upsets have been registered by one point.

He is Lou Groza of the professional Cleveland Browns. In eight seasons the Browns have won many games by 4 or less points, including the thriller of them all, the 1950 championship game which was won by 2 points when "The Toe" kicked a field goal in the final 20 seconds of the game.

Most consecutive points after TD—109.

Most points after TDs (8 seasons)—312.

Bell Is Eligible For Service Tilt

ECAC Changes Rules On Turnback Plebes

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP) — The Executive Council of the Eastern College Athletic Conference decided today that Army halfback Tommy Bell is eligible to play against Navy, Nov. 27.

At the same time it ruled that in the future "turnback" plebes, such as Bell who was in his first varsity season, will not be eligible for varsity competition.

Bell's eligibility had been questioned because he had played varsity football in 1951, his second plebe year, after having played on the Army plebe, or freshman, team the previous season. This unusual situation had not been covered in the ECAC ruling which made freshmen eligible that season because of the Korean war.

Gallorette Stakes At Pimlico Is Won By Mlle. Lorette

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Mlle. Lorette set a new mile and an eighth track record here today at Pimlico in winning the $15,000 added Gallorette Stakes—a race which takes its name from Mlle. Lorette's dam.

Although she had come up to the race with two straight victories, Mlle. Lorette went off at $29 for $2 with the crowd of 12,135 fans. At the finish, she held a half-length margin over Dispute with Another World just a nose back in third position.

Sport Candids

BY FRANK KUCHIRCHUK

EVER occur to you how many football games are lost by one point, that point after touchdown?

This year, in particular, quite a few upsets have been registered by one point.

He is Lou Groza of the professional Cleveland Browns. In eight seasons the Browns have won many games by 4 or less points, including the thriller of them all, the 1950 championship game which was won by 2 points when "The Toe" kicked a field goal in the final 20 seconds of the game.

Longest field goal—53 yards on Oct. 29, 1950.

Most consecutive points after TD—109.

Most points after TDs (8 seasons)—312.

Most field goals kicked (8 seasons)—95.

President Frank J. Davis last night announced that the Centerville (Pa.) Reds will receive a trophy for winning the league playoffs while a pennant will go to the Moorefield American Legion which finished in first place at the close of the regular schedule.

George Hott, Moorefield's all-around athlete, who excels in baseball, basketball and football, will receive three of the individual awards, namely, Most Valuable Player Prize, home run leader and leading base stealer. Hott blasted six round-trippers and pilfered 14 hassocks.

Other awards will go to Bobby Raines, Moorefield pitching ace, who topped the league hurlers with 13 wins and one loss; Ocie Raines, Westvaco, the league's leading hitter with a .441 average, and Bob Keller, Moorefield, who paced the circuit in runs batted in with 33.

Sweden-U. S. Winner Will Play Aussies

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (INS) — The United States Lawn Tennis Association announced today that Billy Talbert, ailing captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team, will fly to Australia Nov. 26 to direct the team's bid to regain the cup.

Talbert, who has been hospitalized with a liver ailment, will join Davis cuppers Tony Trabert, Vic Seixas and Ham Richardson at Melbourne, where the Victorian championships begin on Nov. 25.

The U.S. meets Sweden in the interzone final Dec. 17, 18 and 19 and, if successful, will play Australia in the challenge round Dec. 27, 28 and 29. Talbert does not plan to play in any tournaments, nor in the cup matches.

Bell Is Eligible For Service Tilt

ECAC Changes Rules On Turnback Plebes

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP) — The Executive Council of the Eastern College Athletic Conference decided today that Army halfback Tommy Bell is eligible to play against Navy, Nov. 27.

At the same time it ruled that in the future "turnback" plebes, such as Bell who was in his first varsity season, will not be eligible for varsity competition.

Bell's eligibility had been questioned because he had played varsity football in 1951, his second plebe year, after having played on the Army plebe, or freshman, team the previous season. This unusual situation had not been covered in the ECAC ruling which made freshmen eligible that season because of the Korean war.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Mlle. Lorette set a new mile and an eighth track record here today at Pimlico in winning the $15,000 added Gallorette Stakes—a race which takes its name from Mlle. Lorette's dam.

Although she had come up to the race with two straight victories, Mlle. Lorette went off at $29 for $2 with the crowd of 12,135 fans. At the finish, she held a half-length margin over Dispute with Another World just a nose back in third position.

Mlle. Lorette's time of 1.50 1-5 took three-fifths of a second off the 6-year-old record of Brookmeade Stable's Chains.

LIEGE, Belgium, Nov. 17 (AP) — The Torino soccer team of Italy defeated the Stade Reims club of France 2-1 in an international match here today after trailing 1-0.

The four-leaf clover stands for good luck . . . the big 7 with the crown on top for the finest of all whiskies — Seagram's 7 Crown. Fortunately, Seagram's 7 Crown is much easier to find than four-leaf clovers, because it is the most demanded whiskey in America.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17 (INS) — Kim Novak, who is Columbia's answer to Marilyn Monroe, gets some good news from Jerry Wald when she returns from Reno, where she's making "Five Against The House" with Guy Madison.

What Jerry will tell Kim is that she gets her first starring role in "Antonia," an original by Roy Huggins, who will also produce. It's about the early and wild days of Butte, Montana, when the copper mines were being discovered.

Although she is getting the glamor build-up in a big way, you have to hand it to Kim for not playing the nightclub circuit with a different date every night. She's true to one beau, her schooldays fella, Mac Krim.

Lionel was deeply opposed to the idea of Young Jack playing John Barrymore in a screening of Gene Fowler's "Good Night, Sweet Prince."

Knowing Lionel's big heart, however, I'm sure he would be pleased that John, Jr., has made a deal with Mort Briskin to star in a series of 39 TV films based on the eleven "Lanny Budd" novels of Upton Sinclair. Also, at least one feature movie a year will star young John in the Budd character.

Frank Sinatra is a good father. He's moving out of his beautiful home in Palm Springs over the Thanksgiving weekend to give the house to his children. They also had it last weekend, when Frank was in Vegas.

Sunday, when I was in Palm Springs, I went out to visit the young Sinatras at Frank's place, and 14-year-old Nancy, Jr., 10-year-old Frankie and 6-year-old Tina were having a ball under the supervision of Nancy Sr., who doesn't look much bigger nor much older than her teen-age daughter.

Chatter in Hollywood: Guess the romance between Howard Duff and Gussie Moran is as cold as the day-after-Thanksgiving Turkey. Or else they are being very cagey.

Gussie has been dating Hugh O'Brian and dined with him at the Mardi Gras room of the Park Wilshire the night before he took off for New York.

There's a good chance that 20th may change this title due to the fact that Bob Eunson, newspaperman formerly stationed in Tokyo, contends the title is the same as a national magazine story he wrote, which was printed last September —and which he intends to sell to the movies.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Word comes straight that if Aly Khan will post a big enough bond guaranteeing Yasmin's safe and prompt return to this country, Rita Hayworth will allow the little girl to be taken to the Aga Khan for a visit.

The Bob Mitchums are moving to the desert to remain through Christmas when Bob finishes "Not As A Stranger."

Gloria and Jimmy Stewart have invited his 82-year-old father, Alexander Stewart, and his bride-to-be to spend the Christmas holidays with them in Beverly Hills, and the newlyweds-to-be have accepted.

Fred Beal Was Victim Of Something Which Fooled Supposedly Wiser People Than He

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Fred Erwin Beal died in Lawrence, Mass., Sunday after as confused a life as any I have ever known.

Beal came out of Lawrence 25 years ago hardly more than a boy, determined to help make a new world along the Marxist-Leninist line which he had been persuaded was one of brotherly love, freedom from want and security for all. He was a member of the Communist party and chose its National Textile Workers Union as his vehicle. He had worked in a textile mill from the age of 14, and was then about 22.

The union launched an organizing campaign in the South and Beal went to Gastonia, N. C., as the local leader. I was then city editor of the Charlotte Observer, which covered Gastonia as a suburb. Beal was in my office frequently, protesting that he did not want the violence which inevitably occurred during the long strikes. He did not advocate violence in his speeches to the workers he sought to organize. But he appealed to them because he was sincere—the Communist party always uses these sincere stooges in its front lines — and instilled in them deep resentment against the "bosses."

One night Gastonia's police chief and several other officers approached the darkened hangout of several strike leaders, both imported and local. As he put foot on the porch, a shotgun blasted from inside.

Beal and six others were indicted for conspiracy to murder. When they could not induce brotherly love, they had sought to enforce it. The sandy young man from Lawrence had gotten sand in his eyes and faced 17 to 20 years in jail after a trial which produced a national sensation.

He jumped bail and fled to Russia, which he believed to be his spiritual home. In three years he was back, preferring the life of a fugitive in the United States to even a special status in the Soviet Union. He was finally captured and was paroled after serving part of his term.

"I would rather be an American prisoner than a free man in Russia," he said in applying for restoration of his citizenship. From then on out he campaigned against communism.

I talked to him from time to time. I never learned for sure whether he had found a philosophy to replace the starry-eyed one which got him into so much trouble. He would grow irritated because he could never get me to express a firm belief in his "reform."

I just considered him a benighted victim of something which has fooled supposedly wiser people than he.

Ever since Fred MacMurray was such a hit on the comedy shows of Jack Benny and George Gobel, he's been hounding his agent to get him a movie comedy. Says he's had enough drammer for awhile.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17 (INS) — Kim Novak, who is Columbia's answer to Marilyn Monroe, gets some good news from Jerry Wald when she returns from Reno, where she's making "Five Against The House" with Guy Madison.

What Jerry will tell Kim is that she gets her first starring role in "Antonia," an original by Roy Huggins, who will also produce. It's about the early and wild days of Butte, Montana, when the copper mines were being discovered.

Although she is getting the glamor build-up in a big way, you have to hand it to Kim for not playing the nightclub circuit with a different date every night. She's true to one beau, her schooldays fella, Mac Krim.

Lionel was deeply opposed to the idea of Young Jack playing John Barrymore in a screening of Gene Fowler's "Good Night, Sweet Prince."

Knowing Lionel's big heart, however, I'm sure he would be pleased that John, Jr., has made a deal with Mort Briskin to star in a series of 39 TV films based on the eleven "Lanny Budd" novels of Upton Sinclair. Also, at least one feature movie a year will star young John in the Budd character.

Frank Sinatra is a good father. He's moving out of his beautiful home in Palm Springs over the Thanksgiving weekend to give the house to his children. They also had it last weekend, when Frank was in Vegas.

Sunday, when I was in Palm Springs, I went out to visit the young Sinatras at Frank's place, and 14-year-old Nancy, Jr., 10-year-old Frankie and 6-year-old Tina were having a ball under the supervision of Nancy Sr., who doesn't look much bigger nor much older than her teen-age daughter.

Chatter in Hollywood: Guess the romance between Howard Duff and Gussie Moran is as cold as the day-after-Thanksgiving Turkey. Or else they are being very cagey.

Gussie has been dating Hugh O'Brian and dined with him at the Mardi Gras room of the Park Wilshire the night before he took off for New York.

After being in and out of several films because the roles weren't big enough, Robert Stack finally kicks off his 20th contract in "The Tokyo Story." Buddy Adler's picture which Sam Fuller will direct.

There's a good chance that 20th may change this title due to the fact that Bob Eunson, newspaperman formerly stationed in Tokyo, contends the title is the same as a national magazine story he wrote, which was printed last September —and which he intends to sell to the movies.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Word comes straight that if Aly Khan will post a big enough bond guaranteeing Yasmin's safe and prompt return to this country, Rita Hayworth will allow the little girl to be taken to the Aga Khan for a visit.

The Bob Mitchums are moving to the desert to remain through Christmas when Bob finishes "Not As A Stranger."

Gloria and Jimmy Stewart have invited his 82-year-old father, Alexander Stewart, and his bride-to-be to spend the Christmas holidays with them in Beverly Hills, and the newlyweds-to-be have accepted.

Fred Beal Was Victim Of Something Which Fooled Supposedly Wiser People Than He

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Fred Erwin Beal died in Lawrence, Mass., Sunday after as confused a life as any I have ever known.

Beal came out of Lawrence 25 years ago hardly more than a boy, determined to help make a new world along the Marxist-Leninist line which he had been persuaded was one of brotherly love, freedom from want and security for all. He was a member of the Communist party and chose its National Textile Workers Union as his vehicle. He had worked in a textile mill from the age of 14, and was then about 22.

The union launched an organizing campaign in the South and Beal went to Gastonia, N. C., as the local leader. I was then city editor of the Charlotte Observer, which covered Gastonia as a suburb. Beal was in my office frequently, protesting that he did not want the violence which inevitably occurred during the long strikes. He did not advocate violence in his speeches to the workers he sought to organize. But he appealed to them because he was sincere—the Communist party always uses these sincere stooges in its front lines — and instilled in them deep resentment against the "bosses."

One night Gastonia's police chief and several other officers approached the darkened hangout of several strike leaders, both imported and local. As he put foot on the porch, a shotgun blasted from inside.

Beal and six others were indicted for conspiracy to murder. When they could not induce brotherly love, they had sought to enforce it. The sandy young man from Lawrence had gotten sand in his eyes and faced 17 to 20 years in jail after a trial which produced a national sensation.

He jumped bail and fled to Russia, which he believed to be his spiritual home. In three years he was back, preferring the life of a fugitive in the United States to even a special status in the Soviet Union. He was finally captured and was paroled after serving part of his term.

"I would rather be an American prisoner than a free man in Russia," he said in applying for restoration of his citizenship. From then on out he campaigned against communism.

I talked to him from time to time. I never learned for sure whether he had found a philosophy to replace the starry-eyed one which got him into so much trouble. He would grow irritated because he could never get me to express a firm belief in his "reform."

I just considered him a benighted victim of something which has fooled supposedly wiser people than he.

Who says Hollywood marriages don't last? The same night the Dana Andrews celebrated their 15th anniversary at Jack's at the Beach, the Jack Benny's were in another party celebrating their 28th.

Ever since Fred MacMurray was such a hit on the comedy shows of Jack Benny and George Gobel, he's been hounding his agent to get him a movie comedy. Says he's had enough drammer for awhile.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Because the Rival formula—remarkably complete and scientifically balanced—was specifically created to meet every dog feeding requirement. GAME SELDOM IN SIGHT

KEEP track of it and you will find that very seldom is there a game in prospect for a pair which enters the bidding via a suit overcall, after the opponents have opened the auction. Usually the original bid hand will contain enough defensive strength to prevent a hostile game unless the opener's partner has an utterly worthless hand. Accordingly, a player who inserts an overcall usually has only a part-score chance to offset the danger of his bid being doubled and badly beaten. That is one reason why good bidders are cautious about having ample playing tricks when they make an overcall.

	♠ A Q 6 4 2 ♥ A 9 8 2 ♦ K 3 ♣ 6 4

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass
Pass	Dbl.

In a big duplicate that unsound overcall of 2-Diamonds was made at several tables. One North doubled it at once. One took West off the hook by bidding 2-No Trumps, South then 3-Hearts and North 3-Spades, which was made. In the other cases sound North passed the overcall, South doubled and North made a business pass which brought a two-trick set for 300 points.

Against that two club tricks were taken, a club ruff, the heart A, diamond J, spade A and a heart ruff for a total of seven.

The 300 point score was the largest by any North-South pairs, so of course the worst by any East-Wests. Where West passed throughout, the best North-South scores were 140 for making 3-spades. Some of the North-South pairs reached out for 4-Spades and took a one-trick beating. Some of them even tried for game in No Trumps and were ruined by a shift to hearts after diamond leads.

One West made out a trick better by overcalling with hearts instead of diamonds; he was aided by a slip in the defense.

Why should East be careful about his play when West leads the K of the diamonds, with which he had made an overcall, against South's 2-Hearts doubled by East?

Steels, Rails Lead Way For Stock Market's Rise

The market now has established seven new 25-year peaks out of the last eight sessions. There were few signs of faltering in the bull market boom triggered by the elections two weeks ago.

New York Central topped the most active list up ⅛ at 24 on 105,900 shares. It was followed by Pennsylvania Railroad up ¾ at 19, Howe Sound up 1¼ at 16⅜, Colorado Fuel & Iron up 1¼ at 22¼, and Jones & Laughlin up ⅞ at 31⅛.

Only one stock among the 15 most active declined—Chrysler off 1⅜ at 62⅝ as the sixth most active issue. Motors as a group were lower with General Motors off ¼ and Studebaker-Packard down ⅛.

Among good gainers with net advance were Atlantic Coast Line up 3¾ at 134, Rock Island 2¼, Southern Railway 1⅝, Southern Pacific 1¼, Illinois Central 1¼, National Steel 1⅛, U. S. Steel 1¾ and Republic Steel ⅜.

Goodrich was down 4½ at 117 after hitting a low of 114 following the proposal by directors to split the common two-for-one and to raise the dividend. The stock was up 3¾ yesterday. Olin-Mathieson backed down a point at 57¼ on news that it had sold 126 million dollars in 100-year notes.

Among others losing were Boeing off 1, Douglas Aircraft 1¼, Schenley Industries ¼, Radio Corp. ⅛, International Telephone ⅜, American Smelting ⅜, American Can ½, Texas Co. ¾, and 20th Century-Fox ¼.

WSCS Gives To Swartley Children

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Melvin Methodist Church is planning to send a cash donation to the Swartley home for children. Plans for it and the Christmas meeting were formulated at the meeting recently at the church social room. The latter will be held in the form of a Christmas party, at which time secret sisters will be revealed.

Mrs. Sidna Northcraft presided and roll call was answered with members quoting a favorite Bible verse. Mrs. Virginia Golden reported 35 cards were sent and 23 calls made to the sick and shut-ins. Mrs. Helen Northcraft was welcomed as a new member.

The meeting opened with prayer by the president, and the Scripture was read by Mrs. Gladys May. The devotional theme was "We Hear Thy Voice." Taking part were Mrs. Northcraft, Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Blanche Spier and Mrs. Eleanor DelaGrange. The closing benediction was recited in unison. Mrs. Spier and Mrs. Rhoda Streett were hostesses for the evening.

Others attending were Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Hartman, Mrs. Millie Alderton, Mrs. Irene Kennard, Mrs. Sally Leasure, Mrs. Emma Minke, Mrs. Dora Perdew, Mrs. Hazel Rudolph, Mrs. Margaret Smith, Mrs. Sarah Swartzeller, Mrs. Mary Valentine and Mrs. Joanna Dumbusky.

Steels, Rails Lead Way For Stock Market's Rise

The market now has established seven new 25-year peaks out of the last eight sessions. There were few signs of faltering in the bull market boom triggered by the elections two weeks ago.

Now the average stands at the highest level since Oct. 15, 1929, and some $13 below the all-time high established on Sept. 3 of that year.

The industrial component of the average added 20 cents at a new high of $198.50 while utilities remained unchanged. Railroads soared ahead $1.80 at a new high of $109.20, thus providing the greatest impetus for the rise of the 60-stock average.

New York Central topped the most active list up ⅛ at 24 on 105,900 shares. It was followed by Pennsylvania Railroad up ¾ at 19, Howe Sound up 1¼ at 16⅜, Colorado Fuel & Iron up 1¼ at 22¼, and Jones & Laughlin up ⅞ at 31⅛.

Only one stock among the 15 most active declined—Chrysler off 1⅜ at 62⅝ as the sixth most active issue. Motors as a group were lower with General Motors off ¼ and Studebaker-Packard down ⅛.

Among good gainers with net advance were Atlantic Coast Line up 3¾ at 134, Rock Island 2¼, Southern Pacific 1⅛, Southern Railway 1⅝, Illinois Central 1¼, National Steel 1⅛, U. S. Steel 1¾ and Republic Steel ⅝.

Goodrich was down 4½ at 117 after hitting a low of 114 following the proposal by directors to split the common two-for-one and to raise the dividend. The stock was up 3¾ yesterday. Olin-Mathieson backed down a point at 57¼ on news that it had sold 126 million dollars in 100-year notes.

Among others losing were Boeing off 1, Douglas Aircraft 1¼, Schenley Industries ¼, Radio Corp. ⅛, International Telephone ⅜, American Smelting ⅜, American Can ½, Texas Co. ¾, and 20th Century-Fox ¼.

WSCS Gives To Swartley Children

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Melvin Methodist Church is planning to send a cash donation to the Swartley home for children. Plans for it and the Christmas meeting were formulated at the meeting recently at the church social room. Mrs. Sidna Northcraft presided and roll call was answered with members quoting a favorite Bible verse. Mrs. Virginia Golden reported 35 cards were sent and 23 calls made to the sick and shut-ins. Mrs. Helen Northcraft was welcomed as a new member.

The meeting opened with prayer by the president, and the Scripture was read by Mrs. Gladys May. The devotional theme was "We Hear Thy Voice." Taking part were Mrs. Northcraft, Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Blanche Spier and Mrs. Eleanor DelaGrange. The closing benediction was recited in unison. Mrs. Spier and Mrs. Rhoda Streett were hostesses for the evening.

Water Meeting Planned Sunday For District 16

Conference To Be Held In Fire Hall

Oldtown Road residents will meet Sunday at 1:30 p. m. in the District 16 Fire Hall to explore the possibilities of securing water from the new line the City of Cumberland will build to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Plant.

Clyde E. O'Baker, who has been named temporary chairman for the mass meeting, said all residents of the area are being urged to attend.

He said backers of the plan estimate that up to 300 families who live along the Oldtown Road, from the city limits to the District 16 Fire Hall, may be interested in getting city water.

Want Highway Route

O'Baker said families along the Oldtown Road want the city to route the water line along that highway, rather than beside the B & O tracks, and that the additional water revenues would more than make up for the cost of any additional mileage.

The request was presented to the Mayor and Council on November 8 in the form of a petition signed by 35 residents along the highway.

The petitioners promised free right of way for the line and urged that full consideration be given to their request. Additional names may be secured on the petition Sunday.

City officials promised to give careful consideration to the District 16 request, but said the line must be run along the shortest route for reasons of economy and to provide maximum pressure at the plant from the 18 inch line.

May Consider Tap

There were indications from city officials that consideration would be given to the possibility of providing water, on a wholesale basis, from a tap on the line no matter which route is finally chosen.

The petitioners have pointed out that water and sanitary conditions in the Oldtown Road area are not of the best, and that the presence of pure city water would spur residential developments in that area when the new plate glass plant is built.

New Blue Bridge Is Taking Shape

American Bridge Company crews have installed all of the major parts of the new Blue Bridge at Riverside Park, and are beginning to put the finishing touches on the massive span across the Potomac River. Portions of the span on the Maryland side have been completed, and workers yesterday were welding in place the massive railings along the sidewalks of the span. A portable crane is working in the middle of the bridge, lifting connecting steel in place. The Maryland State Roads Commission is expected soon to let the contract for the deck of the bridge, which is to be built as soon as the steel superstructure is up.

Rec Department Plans Club For Senior Citizens

Suitable Quarters Are Being Sought

Attempts are now being made, he said, to secure a satisfactory meeting place for the club and to arrange for transportation facilities when needed.

Similar programs, primarily for those who are 65 or over, are being stressed in the recreation program offered by most progressive cities.

He said the members of the club will choose a name for the organization and plan their own activity program.

In mosts cities, he said, activities include music, television, movies, arts and crafts, table games, outings and holiday celebrations.

To Be Revived

The activity will not be new for the recreation department, since a Golden Age Club was organized here a number of years ago. This was succeeded by the Golden Glow Club, which has been inactive for more than a year.

He cited Coffeeville, Kan., as an example of a city which offers an outstanding program for its oldsters.

The organization got underway in that city, he said, with a picnic which featured a fiddlers' contest and horseshoe pitching.

Mark Special Events

Pence said that city sets aside a special place for members of the club to watch parades, and that the club has held successful "Gay 90" parties, and special events on major holidays which were celebrated in the youth of the participants.

State College, Pa., he reported, also offers an outstanding program which is sparkplugged by retired professors of that city.

Other cities which offer well-rounded recreation for oldsters are East Orange, N. J., Des Moines, Iowa; Omaha, Neb., and Paterson, N. J.

Have You Seen Mr. Blooper?

You may win $25 this week if you can spot "Mr. Blooper," the mystery man who's busy making as many pedestrian traffic boners as he can without getting killed.

"Mr. Blooper," a well-known citizen designated by the Junior Association of Commerce to attract attention to Allegany County Safety Week, will be operating on downtown streets during the rest of the week.

Simple. If you spot a likely-looking suspect pulling a pedestrian boner, you simply ask him if he's Mr. Blooper.

Habeas Corpus Writ Refused By Henderson

Petition Entered By Baltimore Man

A Baltimore man, now serving a life sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary, was refused a writ of habeas corpus yesterday in an opinion and court order filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson.

The writ was sought in a petition by Albert C. Johns, who was tried for murder before a three-judge court in Baltimore in 1937, was convicted and was given a life term.

In his petition, according to the opinion, there were charges of fraud on the part of the judges and of the State's Attorney, because of what was said or done.

There was an allegation that he (Johns) should have been granted a change of venue and there was a statement that his counsel, whom he did not name, "seemingly was incompetent as an advocator in the defense of the petitioner's trial, no doubt through the lack of knowledge, to represent the petitioner skillfully and conscientiously."

In his opinion, Judge Henderson cited that any or all of these allegations, if true, should have been presented to the Court of Appeals of Maryland under an appeal.

They cannot now be presented to or passed upon by a Circuit Court judge, he ruled. The judge commented that the Court of Appeals has said time and time again that habeas corpus is not available as a substitute for an appeal.

'Toys For Tots' Workshop On North Centre

Campaign Opens On November 22

The collection point for the "Toys For Tots" campaign being conducted here by the local Marine Corps Reserve, has been established at 75 North Centre Street, across from City Hall.

The drive, originally slated for November 15 to November 26, according to Captain Henry W. Tubbs, inspector-instructor of the local unit, will be held from November 22 through December 4.

The toys, which are being collected to bring cheer to deserving children of Cumberland this Christmas, will be repaired and repainted by various civic organizations and service clubs.

The North Centre Street storeroom is now being readied for the toy collection and Captain Tubbs reminds all housewives to set aside discarded toys and have them ready for the annual drive.

A similar campaign conducted in May in cooperation with the Associated Charities and Boy Scouts of America netted over 5,000 toys. However more toys are needed and will be greatly appreciated in the coming drive, Captain Tubbs added.

In the event the storeroom is closed when toys are taken to the headquarters, they may be left at the Associated Charities office in City Hall. New toys may be forwarded to that office at any time prior to Christmas.

PTA Topic Is Fresh Air Fund

Dorothy M. Bigelow, general chairman of Friendly Towns of the New York Herald-Tribune Fresh Air Fund, will be guest speaker Sunday at 3 p.m. at a regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association of SS. Peter and Paul parish.

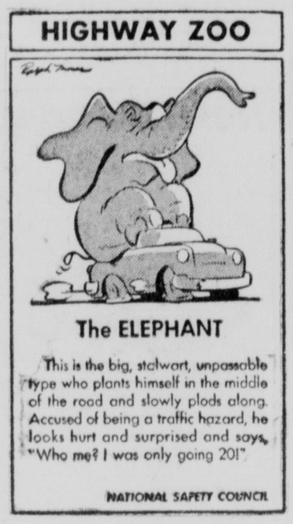

The meeting will be held, according to John Wolfhope, president, in the parish hall.

The purpose of her talk is to explain the general operation of the fund and also to thank those families of the parish who were responsible for a large number of New York children being brought to Cumberland last summer for a vacation.

Many of them have written that they will be glad to do so and arrangements will be made to bring the children here.

Area Women Launch Traffic Safety Plan

Women of Western Maryland have launched the first program in the United States which is devoted exclusively to traffic safety.

The "first" in community safety began here this week when over 100 women from Allegany and Garrett County held a regional conference on traffic safety conducted by and for the women of Western Maryland.

George Grotz, National Safety Council representative, told the some 100 delegates at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, that the eyes of the nation will be on the women of Western Maryland to see what they do for the cause of traffic safety.

He said the luncheon-meeting Tuesday was the first exclusively women's program to be launched as a result of the President's White House Traffic Safety Conference earlier this year.

Cites Traffic Toll

Mrs. Marie E. Gardner, chairman of the Women's Traffic Safety Groups of Maryland, principal speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, toastmaster.

Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, said the nation's daily traffic toll equals the number of guests at the luncheon and that the daily toll of injured is roughly equivalent to the population of Frostburg.

Mrs. Gardner, who was appointed by President Eisenhower upon the recommendations of Governor McKeldin, asked the women in Western Maryland to pledge, during the Thanksgiving season, to take their full share of responsibility in the crusade for highway safety.

Need Work Shoes

"The only way to leave footprints in the sands of time is to wear work shoes," she said, in urging an active campaign.

The conference was sponsored by the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee and will become a permanent part of the Allegany County Safety Week program.

The committee in charge of the conference included Mrs. Roeder, chairman, Miss Catherine Fiori, co-chairman, Miss Mary Wise, Cumberland; Miss Ethel Grove, Oakland; Ray M. Sander, Frostburg; David E. Kirk, Barton, and Lynn Walker, executive chairman of the Western Maryland Safety Council, Cumberland.

JCs To Push Olympic Campaign

A final solicitation to aid the Olympic Fund will be made at the Thanksgiving Day football game between Fort Hill and Allegany high schools, the Junior Association of Commerce announced last night.

The local Jaycees, in cooperation with 2,750 other junior chambers of commerce in the United States, are sponsoring the fund-campaign to send U. S. teams to the 1956 Olympic Games in Australia, and to the 1955 Pan-American Games in Mexico City.

National backers of the drive, besides the Jaycees, are the U. S. Olympic Committee and Life Magazine. They need more than a million dollars.

The board also decided last night to invite all winners of the Jaycee-sponsored "Voice of Democracy" contest in county schools to be guests of the Jaycees at the regular dinner-meeting December 1.

Dr. Compton Will Address Civic Club

Dr. Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, will speak on "School Problems" at the meeting of the Woman's Civic Club today at 1:30 o'clock in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house.

The Educational group, with Mrs. Harry B. Simpson, chairman, is in charge of the program, and Mrs. C. L. Kopp will introduce the speaker. There also will be selections by the Choral Group.

Girl Scout House Gets New Furnace

A new gas-fired furnace has been installed at the Girl Scout House on Greene Street.

Street and Public Property Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, advised of a burst boiler and burned-out fire box on the antiquated furnace, had the new system installed immediately. The building is owned by the city and was formerly the site of the Cumberland Library.

Since the library moved to its present location on Washington Street, the city has permitted the Girl Scouts the use of the Greene Street property.

In making a survey of the property, Commissioner Buchholtz said a number of other major and minor improvements to the property should be undertaken, and will be completed as funds are available.

Want Highway Route

O'Baker said families along the Oldtown Road want the city to route the water line along that highway, rather than beside the B & O tracks, and that the additional water revenues would more than make up for the cost of any additional mileage.

The request was presented to the Mayor and Council on November 8 in the form of a petition signed by 35 residents along the highway.

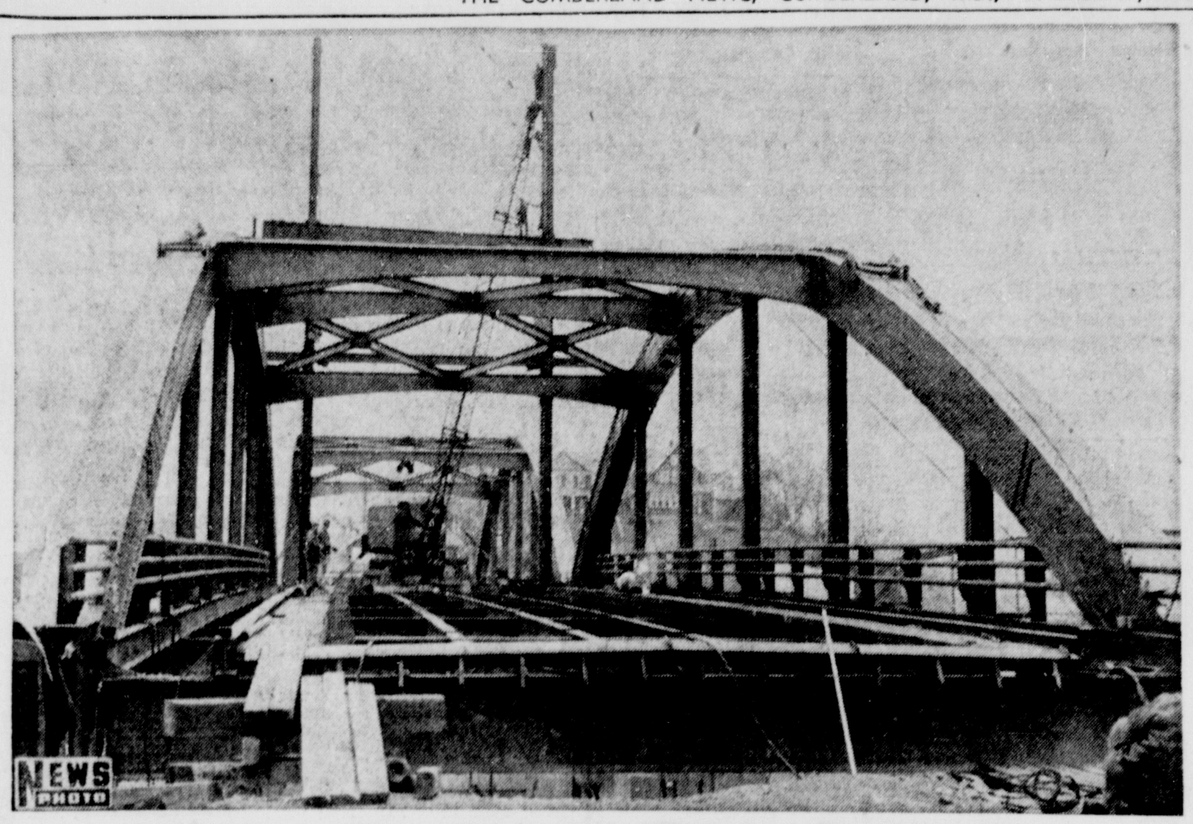

The petitioners promised free right of way for the line and urged that full consideration be given to their request. Additional names may be secured on the petition Sunday.

City officials promised to give careful consideration to the District 16 request, but said the line must be run along the shortest route for reasons of economy and to provide maximum pressure at the plant from the 18 inch line.

May Consider Tap

There were indications from city officials that consideration would be given to the possibility of providing water, on a wholesale basis, from a tap on the line no matter which route is finally chosen.

The petitioners have pointed out that water and sanitary conditions in the Oldtown Road area are not of the best, and that the presence of pure city water would spur residential developments in that area when the new plate glass plant is built.

New Blue Bridge Is Taking Shape

American Bridge Company crews have installed all of the major parts of the new Blue Bridge at Riverside Park, and are beginning to put the finishing touches on the massive span across the Potomac River. Portions of the span on the Maryland side have been completed, and workers yesterday were welding in place the massive railings along the sidewalks of the span. A portable crane is working in the middle of the bridge, lifting connecting steel in place. The Maryland State Roads Commission is expected soon to let the contract for the deck of the bridge, which is to be built as soon as the steel superstructure is up.

Rec Department Plans Club For Senior Citizens

Suitable Quarters Are Being Sought

Plans for organizing recreational facilities for senior citizens of Cumberland are progressing, according to Robert E. Pence, city rec director.

Attempts are now being made, he said, to secure a satisfactory meeting place for the club and to arrange for transportation facilities when needed.

Similar programs, primarily for those who are 65 or over, are being stressed in the recreation program offered by most progressive cities.

He said the members of the club will choose a name for the organization and plan their own activity program.

In mosts cities, he said, activities include music, television, movies, arts and crafts, table games, outings and holiday celebrations.

To Be Revived

The activity will not be new for the recreation department, since a Golden Age Club was organized here a number of years ago. This was succeeded by the Golden Glow Club, which has been inactive for more than a year.

Pence said a panel discussion on recreation for senior citizens was one of the highlights of the recent National Recreation Congress.

He cited Coffeeville, Kan., as an example of a city which offers an outstanding program for its oldsters.

The organization got underway in that city, he said, with a picnic which featured a fiddlers' contest and horseshoe pitching.

Mark Special Events

Pence said that city sets aside a special place for members of the club to watch parades, and that the club has held successful "Gay 90" parties, and special events on major holidays which were celebrated in the youth of the participants.

State College, Pa., he reported, also offers an outstanding program which is sparkplugged by retired professors of that city.

Other cities which offer well-rounded recreation for oldsters are East Orange, N. J., Des Moines, Iowa; Omaha, Neb., and Paterson, N. J.

Have You Seen Mr. Blooper?

You may win $25 this week if you can spot "Mr. Blooper," the mystery man who's busy making as many pedestrian traffic boners as he can without getting killed.

"Mr. Blooper," a well-known citizen designated by the Junior Association of Commerce to attract attention to Allegany County Safety Week, will be operating on downtown streets during the rest of the week.

How do you win the $25?

Simple. If you spot a likely-looking suspect pulling a pedestrian boner, you simply ask him if he's Mr. Blooper.

Habeas Corpus Writ Refused By Henderson

Petition Entered By Baltimore Man

A Baltimore man, now serving a life sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary, was refused a writ of habeas corpus yesterday in an opinion and court order filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson.

The writ was sought in a petition by Albert C. Johns, who was tried for murder before a three-judge court in Baltimore in 1937, was convicted and was given a life term.

In his petition, according to the opinion, there were charges of fraud on the part of the judges and of the State's Attorney, because of what was said or done.

There was an allegation that he (Johns) should have been granted a change of venue and there was a statement that his counsel, whom he did not name, "seemingly was incompetent as an advocator in the defense of the petitioner's trial, no doubt through the lack of knowledge, to represent the petitioner skillfully and conscientiously."

In his opinion, Judge Henderson cited that any or all of these allegations, if true, should have been presented to the Court of Appeals of Maryland under an appeal.

They cannot now be presented to or passed upon by a Circuit Court judge, he ruled. The judge commented that the Court of Appeals has said time and time again that habeas corpus is not available as a substitute for an appeal.

'Toys For Tots' Workshop On North Centre

Campaign Opens On November 22

The collection point for the "Toys For Tots" campaign being conducted here by the local Marine Corps Reserve, has been established at 75 North Centre Street, across from City Hall.

The drive, originally slated for November 15 to November 26, according to Captain Henry W. Tubbs, inspector-instructor of the local unit, will be held from November 22 through December 4.

The toys, which are being collected to bring cheer to deserving children of Cumberland this Christmas, will be repaired and repainted by various civic organizations and service clubs.

The North Centre Street storeroom is now being readied for the toy collection and Captain Tubbs reminds all housewives to set aside discarded toys and have them ready for the annual drive.

A similar campaign conducted in May in cooperation with the Associated Charities and Boy Scouts of America netted over 5,000 toys. However more toys are needed and will be greatly appreciated in the coming drive, Captain Tubbs added.

In the event the storeroom is closed when toys are taken to the headquarters, they may be left at the Associated Charities office in City Hall. New toys may be forwarded to that office at any time prior to Christmas.

PTA Topic Is Fresh Air Fund

Dorothy M. Bigelow, general chairman of Friendly Towns of the New York Herald-Tribune Fresh Air Fund, will be guest speaker Sunday at 3 p.m. at a regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association of SS. Peter and Paul parish.

The meeting will be held, according to John Wolfhope, president, in the parish hall.

The purpose of her talk is to explain the general operation of the fund and also to thank those families of the parish who were responsible for a large number of New York children being brought to Cumberland last summer for a vacation.

Many of them have written that they will be glad to do so and arrangements will be made to bring the children here.

Area Women Launch Traffic Safety Plan

HIGHWAY ZOO

The ELEPHANT

This is the big, stalwart, unpassable type who plants himself in the middle of the road and slowly plods along. Accused of being a traffic hazard, he looks hurt and surprised and says, "Who me? I was only going 20!"

NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

Women of Western Maryland have launched the first program in the United States which is devoted exclusively to traffic safety.

The "first" in community safety began here this week when over 100 women from Allegany and Garrett County held a regional conference on traffic safety conducted by and for the women of Western Maryland.

George Grotz, National Safety Council representative, told the some 100 delegates at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, that the eyes of the nation will be on the women of Western Maryland to see what they do for the cause of traffic safety.

He said the luncheon-meeting Tuesday was the first exclusively women's program to be launched as a result of the President's White House Traffic Safety Conference earlier this year.

Cites Traffic Toll

Mrs. Marie E. Gardner, chairman of the Women's Traffic Safety Groups of Maryland, principal speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, toastmaster.

Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, said the nation's daily traffic toll equals the number of guests at the luncheon and that the daily toll of injured is roughly equivalent to the population of Frostburg.

Mrs. Gardner, who was appointed by President Eisenhower upon the recommendations of Governor McKeldin, asked the women in Western Maryland to pledge, during the Thanksgiving season, to take their full share of responsibility in the crusade for highway safety.

Need Work Shoes

"The only way to leave footprints in the sands of time is to wear work shoes," she said, in urging an active campaign.

The conference was sponsored by the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee and will become a permanent part of the Allegany County Safety Week program.

The committee in charge of the conference included Mrs. Roeder, chairman, Miss Catherine Fiori, co-chairman, Miss Mary Wise, Cumberland; Miss Ethel Grove, Oakland; Ray M. Sander, Frostburg; David E. Kirk, Barton, and Lynn Walker, executive chairman of the Western Maryland Safety Council, Cumberland.

JCs To Push Olympic Campaign

A final solicitation to aid the Olympic Fund will be made at the Thanksgiving Day football game between Fort Hill and Allegany high schools, the Junior Association of Commerce announced last night.

The local Jaycees, in cooperation with 2,750 other junior chambers of commerce in the United States, are sponsoring the fund-campaign to send U. S. teams to the 1956 Olympic Games in Australia, and to the 1955 Pan-American Games in Mexico City.

National backers of the drive, besides the Jaycees, are the U. S. Olympic Committee and Life Magazine. They need more than a million dollars.

The board also decided last night to invite all winners of the Jaycee-sponsored "Voice of Democracy" contest in county schools to be guests of the Jaycees at the regular dinner-meeting December 1.

A new gas-fired furnace has been installed at the Girl Scout House on Greene Street.

Street and Public Property Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, advised of a burst boiler and burned-out fire box on the antiquated furnace, had the new system installed immediately. The building is owned by the city and was formerly the site of the Cumberland Library.

Since the library moved to its present location on Washington Street, the city has permitted the Girl Scouts the use of the Greene Street property.
